P R E F A C E .

The descendants of the brothers Jeremiah and John Wood are found in most of the States and Territories of the United States, as well as in some of the isles of the sea and distant lands.

The compiler has labored long and persistently to bring together the records of these various branches, and he hopes this volume may meet with a kind reception among those for whom it has been especially prepared.

It has been thought best to publish this pioneer Genealogy of the brothers Jeremiah and John Wood, not waiting for absolute perfection, hoping that it may give information and stimulate enquiry concerning our kindred, that we may be more strongly bound together as one great family, whether by the name of Wood or otherwise.

The compiler takes pleasure in saying that his respect and veneration for this family has been largely increased by his researches, and he believes it will bear favorable comparison with other great families whose genealogical records have been carefully preserved. May we all do what we can to perfect and preserve our own. In the language of Job, viii. 8: "Enquire, I pray thee, of the former age, and prepare thyself to the search of their fathers."

I wish to thank all those who have contributed records and information, which includes hundreds of persons. I am particularly indebted to Charles H. Lane, of Templeton, Mass., who collected the Abel White records. I must acknowledge valuable suggestions from John Ward Dean, the librarian of the New England Historic Genealogical Society, Boston, Mass.

I call attention to the excellent mechanical execution of this volume by the printing establishment of Charles Hamilton, of Worcester, Mass., and I extend my sincere thanks for the uniform courtesy of the house, and for its superior work, under the well-known manager and proof-reader, Benjamin J. Dodge, who has done much to prevent mistakes of type and pen.

PART FIRST.

JEREMIAH WOOD.

“JEREMIAH WOOD was married unto Dority Benett the 29th March 1709,” as per Vol. 2, page 354, Lyme Town Records, and by his own Family Record now in possession of Isaac Wood of Boston, Mass.

The grandfather of Dorathy (Benett) Wood, Henry Champion, was born in England in 1611. He came to New England and was one of the first settlers of Saybrook and Lyme, Connecticut.

In the old Town Records of Saybrook we find the following :

Henry Champion was married in Aug. 1647 He had :

SARAW (Sarah), born in 1649.

MARY, born in 1651.

STEPHEN, born 1653; died in the beginning of May, 1660.

HENRY, Jun'r, born 1654 or 5.

THOMAS, born April, 1656.

Royal P. Hinman, in his “Early Puritan Settlers of Connecticut,” says:—“Few families in the Connecticut Colony have been more prospered than that of Henry Champion, Sen., of Saybrook. When I speak of his family, I intend his numerous descendants.” He speaks of descendants of Thomas, son of Henry, Sen., mentioning Col. Henry, Gen.^l Henry, Gen. Epaphroditus Champion, as fortunate in amassing wealth. Col. Henry, son of Thomas, bore an important part in the war of the Revolution; was appointed Commissary in 1775, in the commencement of the Revolution, assisted by his sons, who afterwards held an exalted position in Connecticut. E.

Champion was a Member of Congress from 1807 to 1817.

Henry Champion, Sen., removed to Lyme many years before his death. He was propounded for a freeman at Lyme in 1670. He had lands beyond "Little Stony Brook" in June, 1674, and other lands.

He married 21st March, 1698, second wife Deborah, and died at great age in Lyme, Conn., Feb. 17, 1708.

The papers concerning the final settlement of his estate are on file at the Probate Office, New London, Conn. The following named heirs signed a paper declaring themselves satisfied with the distribution of the estate: Deborah Champion, wife; Henry Champion; Henry Benet; Aaron Huntly; John Wade; Hannah Wade.

Lyme was settled about 1664; its first English name was East Saybrook. It was incorporated as a distinct town by the name of Lyme, in 1667.

Henry Benet, named above as one of the heirs of Henry Champion, Sen., married Sarah Champion, daughter of Henry Champion, Sen., 9th of December, 1673. Among the names of their children is Dorathy Benet, who married Jeremiah Wood.

As per Lyme Town Records, Henry and Sarah (Champion) Benet had:

CALEB, b. Oct. 11, 1675.

ROSE, b. Nov. 15, 1677.

JOHN, b. Dec. 26, 1680.

SARAH, b. Aug. 7, 1683.

LOVE, b. March 19th, 1685.

DOROTE, b. May 19, 1688.

HENRY, b. July 29, 1691.

The History of New London, by F. M. Calkins, says: "Henry Bennet of Lyme died in 1726 leaving three sons and four married daughters." His Will and a record of "Deeds of Gift" to his children are to be found at New London, Conn., as also a "Deed of Gift" to Dorathy, his daughter, is found among the papers of her husband, Jeremiah Wood.

Children of Jeremiah (1) and Dorathy (2) (Benett) Wood:

3. SARAH, b. April 18, 1710; died Dec. 8, 1723.
4. ELIZABETH, b. Oct. 14, 1711.
5. JOSEPH, b. May 22, 1713.
6. LUCE, b. March 4, 1715.
7. BENET, b. March 15, 1717; d. Apr. 28, 1797.
8. JOHN, b. February 3, 1719; d. Apr. 8, 1758.
9. JEREMIAH, b. Dec. 1, 1721; d. Oct. 21, 1736.
10. SARAH, b. Feb. 7, 1724.
11. JONATHAN, b. Aug. 3, 1727; d. Oct. 18, 1797.
12. ELIPHALET, b. July 19, 1729; d. Apr. 16, 1817.

Jeremiah Wood lived in Stow, Mass., when his first four children were born, and the rest of his family were born in Littleton, Mass. The Stow Records were destroyed previous to 1713, consequently there is no Town record of the births of the first two girls. The first name on the Stow Town Record of Births is that of Joseph Wood, third child of Jeremiah and Dorathy Wood, b. May 22, 1713, as per Town and family records.

The Town record of the birth of Luce is identical with that found in Jeremiah's family record, including the spelling of the name. The Town and family records of those born in Littleton are the same. Jeremiah Wood died in Littleton, Mass., July 15, 1730, aged 52 years, 2 months and 8 days, as given upon his gravestone in Littleton.

His birth, therefore, must have been in May, 1678. He had a brother, John Wood, who married March 3, 1705, Elizabeth Buckminster, daughter of Col. Joseph Buckminster of Framingham, Mass., and the marriage is recorded there "both of this town." He first settled in Framingham, Mass., where the births of all of his children but the last are recorded. He afterwards settled in Hopkinton, Mass., where the present village of Woodville now stands, and where several of John Wood's descendants now reside.

In a memorandum of an agreement between Zachariah Whitman of Hull, and Jeremiah Wood, May 2, 1705, probably written by Whitman, it reads "Jeremiah Wood of 'Malborow.'" In his intention of marriage it reads "both of Lyme," Conn.; from 1710 to 1716, in records and accounts, he is of Stow, Mass. From 1716 until his death, of Littleton, Mass.

The following from Jeremiah Wood's papers:

"1705, May 2nd.

MEMORANDUM.

It is agreed upon betwixt Zechariah Whitman of Hull & Jeremiah Wood of Malborow y^e s^d. Wood doth enter into possession & occupation of the same house and land and meadow formerly in the occupation of Thomas Daby of Stow for some years yet to come from the first of day of this instant May & sd. Wood is to pay or cause to be paid 7 £ per annum to said Whitman.

ZECHARIAH WHITMAN."

In 1707, by his account book, he worked three weeks and four days for James Levins. He received four weeks' board. "Sept. 20th day James Levins owes me eighty shillings."

In 1708, Feb. 13, a receipt in full for rent of estate in Stow is received from the agent of Zachariah Whitman.

An intention of marriage is found among Jeremiah's private papers:

"This: is: to give: notice: that there: is: a: purpose of marriage intended between Jeremiah Wood Sen. and Dorathy Benet both of Lyme.

March y^e 20: day: 1709."

By the papers and accounts of Jeremiah Wood that we have seen, it is not improbable that he settled immediately after marriage upon the estate where he died. His residence was first in Stow, then in Littleton,—but this may have been caused by the establishing of the boundaries of the town, which was named Littleton, Dec. 3, 1715,—and in 1716, and ever after in his accounts we find Jeremiah Wood in Littleton. In Stow, in 1681, we find the names of twelve persons to whom allotments of land were made, one of whom was that of Joseph Daby, whose name appears later in this volume. The town extended from the ancient bounds of Sudbury to what is now Lunenburg. Stow was incorporated May 16, 1683. We find a receipt given to Jeremiah Wood of Littleton, for church purposes in 1716.

The birth of his daughter Luce, born March 16, 1715, is recorded in Stow; the birth of his next younger child, Benet, born March 15, 1717, is recorded in Littleton. One line of the lands of the Littleton estate crosses Beaver Brook.

“Whom it may concern.

This may certify that Jeremiah Wood hired of the Selectmen of Stow that part of common meadow belonging to sd. town lying on Beaver Brook for the year 1716.

Stow July the 9th 1716 THOMAS BROWN, Clark.”

Jeremiah Wood was a Weaver, a Yeoman, Gentleman, as shown by his account book and papers. He was Constable and Collector, later Selectman, and for some years Treasurer of the town of Littleton. He was a member and supporter of the church in Littleton, and his estate, at the time of his death, was valued at almost a thousand pounds.

His brother John died about five years before him, and his estate, at what is now Woodville, Mass., was valued at nearly nine hundred pounds.

The account book and papers of Jeremiah Wood, and those of his son John, were discovered by the writer in searching for old papers of our ancestors. They are in the possession of Isaac Wood of Boston, Mass., who was not aware that he had them. He brought papers of his father and grandfather from the old homestead to Boston, but was not a little surprised to see records of six generations in his possession. He has my sincere thanks for the free use of all of them.

The account book was intended to be carried in the pocket, but is large for that purpose; it was bound in leather peculiar to those times, and had a copper clasp. It was commenced when he was young; some of the leaves are missing; the first pages are gone; the earliest account left in the book is in 1707. A part of another account book is found, but of later date. Other books are probably lost or destroyed. Of the first named book, on the second page of the cover, in his own handwriting, which was always very good, is the common entry in earlier times. When we recall the fact that he was born more than two hundred years ago, a more impressive meaning is attached to his statements on the cover. They are as follows:

“ Jeremiah Wood, His Book His hand.
 Jeremiah Wood, His Book and with his hand and pen he wret the same.
 Jeremiah Wood his hand and name and with my ink and pen writ the same.”

To facilitate further research, I give some of the names of persons in this account book with whom I find he had dealings:

John Eveleth, minister of the town of Stow; John Barker of Concord, blacksmith; Samuel Wright of Concord; Joseph Daby of Stow; John Barker of Stow, 1710; James Keyes of Lancaster; Moses Whitney of Stow; Richard Euscnes, Sen., 1707; Capt. Prescott of Groton; Caleb Taylor; John Robins; Josiah Whitcombe of Lancaster; Hezekiah Whitcombe; Jonathan Whitcombe; Joseph Harris; Jonathan Prescott; Joseph Powers; Jonathan Hartwell; Jonathan Taylor; Moses Whitney, Sen. of Stow; Elizabeth Whitcombe of Lancaster; Phineas Rice, 1711; David Wetherbee of Stow; Robert Robins; Benj. Shattuck; Joseph Whitcomb; John Perham; ——— Lawrence; Thomas Chamberlain; John Sayer of Lancaster; Widow Wetherbee of Stow; Ephraim Wetherbee; John Farr; John Cobliech, 1723; Thomas Whitney of Stow, 1722; Joseph Barker; Joseph Blancher; John Edwards; Joseph Whitney of Chelmsford; John Wood of Hopkinton, June and August, 1724.

We find among Jeremiah's papers a "Deed of Gift" to Dorathy Benet, from her father, Henry Benet of Lyme, Conn. It is recorded in the second book of Records, folio 347. This deed was signed Feb. 24, 1706-7.

Recorded 5th of March, 1707, by

JOSEPH PECK, Recorder.

Also, the following statement:

"LYME, Oct. 9, 1722.

Mr. Henry Benet Sen. hath given the one half of Volunteer lot in Voluntown unto me Jeremiah Wood who am his son-in-law, living in Littleton y^e Massachusetts Bay in New England."

Henry Benet also remembers his daughter, Dorathy Wood, in his will.

"OCT. 27, 1725.

Received of Jeremiah Wood twenty shillings for y^e five years tax of half a lot of land in Voluntown originally Henry Benett's which was sold for y^e non payment of y^e first two years Tax and was sold Thomas Dow of Voluntown and is acquitted from y^e said seizment y^e said Wood paying y^e charge with y^e interest sixteen shillings and four pence

01—16—4

JACOB BROWN, Treasurer."

A Deed of the above is found among the rest, it having been deeded to him after the back taxes had been paid. Deed dated March 28, 1726. The tract now comprising the town of Voluntown, Conn., was granted in 1696 to the Volunteers in the Narragansett war, and the town received its name from that circumstance. April 17, 1706, they went out to "draw lots." One hundred and fifty lots were laid out, some receiving but half a share. Henry Benet was one of the proprietors.

Jeremiah Wood purchased of the "Town of Littleton" his estate there Jan. 13, 1717, a part of which is still in the possession of his descendants. Several generations of the Wood family have been born there. The writer, his father, grandfather and great-grandfather were born there, and his great-great-grandfather, Jeremiah Wood, received the deed from the Town of Littleton, as explained in the deed itself. It is here given for the information it contains, and as a curiosity for coming generations. It is as follows :

Cambr. Sept. 3, 1717

Rec^d and accordingly Entered

By Sam^l Phipps, Reg^r."

John Daby of the Town of Stow, bought land of the same Committee a few days after.

Benjamin Shattuck, son of Dr. Philip Shattuck of Watertown, was the first ordained minister of Littleton, b. May 15, 1684, ordained 25th of December, 1717. He had probably preached there earlier, as I find a receipt, dated Sept. 1, 1716, for one pound some shillings, collected for Benjamin Shattuck of Jeremiah Wood.

I will now introduce a copy of a letter written one hundred and sixty-seven years ago. (1885). It was written by John Wood and wife to their brother. The direction was upon the outside as follows :

“ This for
Mr. Jeremiah Wood
living in Littleton, Deliver.”

Inside.

“ December the 18, 1718. Whithall.

After my love to you these lines are to inform you that I am in good health and mine also.

My wife and I have love for you and yours, but we show it not by our often meetings.

I pray mend these faults

And this for my part,

JOHN WOOD, your loven brother.”

“And as for my part I would gladly have come to see you this fall but your Brother would not, nevertheless I would be very glad to see you both at our house.

Your loving sister

ELIZABETH WOOD.”

The above letter from Jeremiah Wood's papers is important in establishing the relationship of Jeremiah Wood of Littleton and John Wood of Hopkinton, living at Whitehall.

In Jeremiah Wood's account book we find an account with his brother the year before John's death, as follows :

“ June 3, 1724 John Wood of Hopkinton is debtor to me Jeremiah Wood of Littleton, To forty-three pounds of tobacco 1 £ 1s. 6d.

Aug. 1, 1724 To weaving twenty nine yards of all wool cloth at eight pence per yard 19s. 4d.

To weaving sixteen yards of Linen cloth four yards striped 16s. 4d.”

In a paper of Capt. Amariah Wood, entitled “ The Progenitors of Amariah Wood, as far back as he has knowledge thereof," written in 1856, he says: "I think my father, Dea. John Wood of Littleton has said that some of his relatives settled somewhere south, not far from Worcester, Mass., and some in Westminster, Mass." In my early days I heard the name of Hopkinton mentioned as perhaps the place of settlement; I therefore examined the records in Probate office at Cambridge, Mass. I found on file the settlement of Capt. John Wood's estate of Hopkinton. I was surprised in finding the same signature, Elizabeth Wood, as Administratrix, as in the letter named. She was married again about three years after John Wood's decease, and before the final settlement of the estate, and she signs again as Elizabeth Wood alias Rice.

She married Josiah Rice. I looked at the settlement of Rice's estate and his Will, and find the name "Elizabeth Rice and my son in law Joseph Wood Executors," and the same signature, Elizabeth Rice. I afterwards discovered that her maiden name was Elizabeth Buckminster, and a daughter of Col. Joseph Buckminster of Framingham, Mass. I looked at the settlement of his estate and found the name of Elizabeth Rice upon a paper acknowledging the receipt of one hundred and twelve pounds from the estate.

I then placed the four signatures before three men who were considered experts, the papers so folded that only the name appeared, and they unanimously agreed that these signatures were all written by the same person, viz: Upon the letter, and upon the settlement of the estates of John Wood, Josiah Rice, and Joseph Buckminster.

Whitehall, upon the letter, was the early name of the place where the village of Woodville now stands, and is at the outlet of Whitehall pond, a beautiful sheet of water of 620 acres and is the source of Sudbury river. The names of many of the descendants of John and Elizabeth (Buckminster) Wood and the ancestors of Elizabeth Buckminster are found recorded in Part II. of this volume.

At the decease of Jeremiah Wood, his wife, Dorathy Wood, was appointed Administratrix.

Lieutenant Jonathan Hartwell, Mr. Jonathan Whitcomb, both of Littleton, and Mr. Ebenezer Prescott of Westford, were appointed to appraise the property.

The eldest son, Joseph, refused to accept the land set to him, alleging "that it is too highly appraised," and no other inclining to take it, the Judge directs the appraisers to set off to each an equal part, or else to settle it among the children in such proportion as shall be agreed on by the parties concerned. This was Feb. 24, 1734.

Joseph offers to let one of his brothers take his house at "as much as any man of judgment shall think it worth." He also desires the same appraisers to be further directed to "lay off my one part by itself." The eldest son, in those times, received two parts.

The Commissioners appointed to distribute the estate were Eleazer Lawrence, Lieut. Samuel Hunt, Abraham Patch and Jonathan Whetcombe, all of Littleton, and Ebenezer Prescott of Westford.

The Personal Property was appraised at 184 £, 16s.

The following is from the real estate minutes of the settlement of the Real Estate as per Probate records at Cambridge, Mass. :

Memorandum: Joseph to be accountable to the heirs for the Narraganset Right which he sold and to be answerable to the Widow and heirs for the horse and clothing delivered to him valued at 13 £ 15s.

I will not record the distribution of Personal Property. The widow's thirds are not included in the above. The valuation of the estate at the time of final settlement was more than a thousand pounds.

The aforesaid portions to be paid by John and Jeremiah as they come of age & they are to pay interest in the meantime at the rate of 4 per cent to begin the 14th of July 1735."

The above account of settlement is the best evidence of relationship and may make us better acquainted with the family.

Dorathy, the wife of Jeremiah Wood, lived twenty-two years and two days after his decease. She was left with a large family; the youngest, Eliphalet, was four days less than a year old; the oldest child living, Elizabeth, in her nineteenth year, and the oldest son, Joseph, a little past seventeen. Dorathy was away from her early associations and home. Her oldest child, Sarah, had died less than seven years before, and her son, Jeremiah, to whom was assigned a portion of the real estate, died less than seven years after, not then fifteen years of age.

She did not despair; she did not go back to her early home by the river and the sea, but she cared for her children, and kept and improved the estate until its distribution.

We find the following allowances were made her :

“One acre of Land plowed up; Forty-six rods of Log and Brush fence,	5 £.
Seventy rods of Rail fence	4 £.

In the inventory of her estate I notice sixteen barrels of cider. A gold necklace, appraised at fourteen pounds.

She was a good manager, and with much liberality towards her children and the poor; her estate, at her death, was appraised at £575, and fifty pounds more were given for it by Benet and John Wood than appraised, making £625 that was received from her thirds at her death, an increase upon what was left her by her husband twenty-two years before. She was no ordinary woman. Her influence was undoubtedly felt by her children. In uprightness of character, stability of purpose, sound judgment, and high regard for family and personal honor, the family of Jeremiah and Dorathy Wood was no ordinary family.

Jeremiah Wood died July 15, 1730; Dorathy Wood, his wife, died July 17, 1752. Their graves are side by side in Littleton, and near them are grouped the graves of some of their children, grandchildren, great-grandchildren and great-great-grandchildren.

Gravestones mark the resting-place of most of them. In the new Cemetery near by, are the graves of many more descendants, and upon gravestone and monument, separated by "mount and stream and sea," we read the names of their descendants and learn the fate of us all.

WILLIAM ANSON WOOD.

WILLIAM ANSON WOOD, son of Aaron Wood and Rebeckah (Wright) Wood, was born at Mason, N. H., August 3rd, 1813.

His father, in his day, was a well-known and enterprising citizen, at the place of his birth, in Pepperell, Mass., and after his marriage and removal to Mason, N. H., where he resided for many years, engaged in his trade with marked success.

By reason of endorsements, he lost heavily, which induced him to leave Mason, locating for a short time at Washington, Berkshire Co., Mass., thence he removed to New York State, and was among the first to manufacture the celebrated Jethro Wood Cast Iron Plow. Mr. Wood finally settled at Rensselaerville, Albany Co., where he found an intelligent, thrifty New England community, and fine schools for the education of his children. William Anson, the subject of this sketch, entered his father's shop at an early age, soon developing rare mechanical and inventive genius. When of age, he struck out for himself, locating at Hoosick Falls, N. Y., where for a long time he occupied a leading position as master mechanic in the well-known factory of Parsons & Wilder.

About the year 1850, he, with many others, caught the California fever, and decided to break the relations that had so long and pleasantly existed between Messrs. Parsons & Wilder and himself, and try his fortune in the "New Eldorado." Falling very ill on the steamer, he was compelled to land at New Orleans, where he stopped long enough to recover health, deciding meanwhile to abandon the trip and return North, which he did via the Mississippi river, thence to Cleveland, Ohio. He found here an old Rensselaerville friend, Col. Ethan Rogers, superintending the Cuyahoga Iron Works, and was by him induced to take a responsible place in the works.

Mr. Wood, in this position, made a reputation for genius of a high order, and attained great popularity as a citizen; was elected a member of the City Council, which trust he discharged with honor and fidelity, retiring with clean hands.

About the year 1856, the business of his brother, Walter Abbott Wood, had assumed such magnitude, that it became necessary to employ a competent superintendent. This qualification he knew his brother, Wm. Anson, possessed, and with the hope of improving his financial condition, he entered into an arrangement with Anson to take charge of the Reaper and Mower Factory at Hoosick Falls, with the additional duty of originating and adopting improvements in the Bureau of Invention. This responsible office he filled most creditably for fifteen years, at the expiration of which time he withdrew, having a reasonable competency. After a few years of retired life he was induced to engage in business with the late James S. Thayer, of New York, allowing the use of his name as the "William Anson Wood Reaper and Mower Co.," Mr. Wood and his son Frank taking charge of the Patent and Mechanical Department, Thayer and Quackenbush the financial. This connection proved most disastrous, Mr. Wood advancing money and services without recovery; endorsing their paper without reserve, which soon worked his financial ruin, though he came out of the trial with a reputation for probity and integrity unsullied.

The Company was re-organized, and for two years continued their business at Albany, when it was sold out to capitalists of Youngstown, Ohio, in 1880, and established on a sound financial basis, Mr. Wood and his son, Frank Wood, filling the positions relatively, as at Albany, though at this date (1884) his failing health prevents him from giving much time or attention to the business; but the use of his name is of incalculable value to the concern, as Mr. Wood is well known among the celebrated inventors of the country, and is justly entitled to be ranked with those who have amassed fortunes.

Mr. Wood is in every sense of the word a self-made man; his early education being limited, and capital small in dollars and cents, but with an active brain and diligent hands, an unselfish heart and unswerving principles, he has battled the ills of life manfully for over seventy years, and none will deny him an honorable name. His motto was, "Whatever is done, let it be well done."

He never felt ashamed to be called a mechanic. Although frequently invited to take office from his fellow-citizens, with the exception of his service in the Council of Cleveland, he consented but once to be nominated for the assembly in Rensselaer Co. by the Democratic party in a strong Republican district, and narrowly escaped an election.

He was again, in 1878, unanimously nominated for Congress in the 17th district, but his brother, Walter A. Wood, being a candidate on the Republican ticket, he declined the honor.

Since the foregoing was written, William Anson Wood has passed this life's limits. He died November 18, 1884. His genial nature and obliging manners endeared him to many, many friends.

WALTER ABBOTT WOOD.

WALTER ABBOTT WOOD, son of Aaron Wood and Rebeckah (Wright) Wood, was born at Mason, Hillsboro' Co., N. H., October 23rd, 1815.

At an early age his inclinations and tastes led him to engage in mechanical pursuits ; remaining with his father until twenty years of age, he became master of his trade.

In the year 1835 he located at Hoosick Falls, N. Y., in the machine works of Parsons & Wilder, and soon found himself in a field of labor adapted to his genius and ambition, and by industry and close application took a high rank in the estimation of the firm and among his fellow-workmen: indeed, there was nothing in the line of his trade that he was unwilling to undertake and master.

One of the leading traits of his character was developed early, that was, never to give up what he undertook to do that would advance the science of mechanism. He always commanded the best wages in the factory, by reason of which (and the exercise of reasonable economy), he acquired a small capital, and soon established himself in business on his own account.

Farming implements became his "hobby," to the study of which he gave much time and attention, resulting in the introduction of the Manny Harvesting Machine, with Wood's Improvements; and in the year 1852 a hundred or two were made and sold by Mr. Wood. He continued to invent and improve upon Mowers and Reapers, so that in the year 1853 his sales amounted to five hundred. They were so well received by the farmers that he resolved to increase his works and manufacture on as large a scale as his means would warrant.

Notwithstanding these increased facilities, they were found insufficient to supply the demand. In the year 1859 his production and sales were 6,000; in 1869, 23,000; in 1879, 25,000; and in 1884, 48,300, and the total number made and sold since he commenced the business, sum up five hundred thirty-three thousand, which exceeds that of any other one establishment of the kind in the world.

His machines have found a market in every kingdom, and upon their working "the sun never sets."

From the small beginning named, it has now become the most extensive works known in the trade in this country or in Europe.

They occupy eighty-five acres of land for the workshops, store-houses and lumber yard: all parts of the works are connected by railway tracks of their own, five miles in length, and employing two powerful locomotives belonging to the company for transportation and shipping on their own grounds.

The average production of the factory exceeds two hundred and twenty-five machines daily, and the supply of material and shipping of machines is about twenty car-loads every twenty-four hours.

The number of employés to man the works, fifteen hundred; add to this the number of those employed in their various branch establishments for the sale and distribution, the whole number employed will exceed two thousand. The yearly sales now exceed five million dollars.

Up to and including the year 1865, Mr. Wood conducted his business single handed; from 1866 to the present time, it has been organized under the laws of New York as a stock company, known as the "WALTER A. WOOD MOWING AND REAPING MACHINE CO.," with a capital of two million five hundred thousand dollars, Mr. Wood acting as President without intermission.

The writer is indebted to the "Encyclopædia of Contemporary Biography of New York," for the following extract:

"Mr. Wood early perceived the necessity for such implements abroad, particularly in the great grain districts of South-Eastern Europe, where the conditions so nearly correspond with those of the American grain-producing areas. In 1858 he established an office in London, and securing a competent representative, sent thither an invoice of fifty of his machines. They were the first implements of this class sent to Europe, and were speedily sold. The next year he sent out two hundred and fifty, which were disposed of with equal facility. Since that date the foreign sales have largely increased, the total number exported up to the close of 1872 being thirty thousand,—fully ninety per cent. of the whole number sold in that country by American makers.”

Mathew A. Wood

Since which date a continued increased demand has been made upon his establishment until the aggregate exportation, to the present date, has reached one hundred and ten thousand !

In this connection it is just and very proper to say, that at all the great World's Fairs and Expositions in Europe, as well as in America, Wood's machines have been on exhibition and in competition with English and American machines, and also in field trials, where the most severe scientific tests have been applied, and with scarcely an exception Mr. Wood has received the highest awards.

At the Royal Agricultural Society of England, at the famous trial at Leeds in 1861.

At the London Exhibition they won the grand medal of merit, the highest award conferred.

At the Paris Universal Exposition, held in 1876, the display of the like implements far exceeded all former exhibits. The Walter A. Wood machines took the leading rank, and were awarded the grand Gold Medal of honor, also the Cross of Chevalier of the Legion of Honor.

And again at the great international field trial in France, Mr. Wood took the first prize against the world.

His next victory was achieved at the Vienna International Exhibition in 1873, which surpassed, if possible, all former competition in the number of machines on trial. After a sharp contest, Mr. Wood was unanimously awarded by the jury the highest prize, the Grand Diploma of Honor, and knighted with the Cross of the Imperial Order of Francis Joseph. At this trial Mr. Wood, for the first time, brought into the field his justly celebrated Harvester and Binder, which machine attracted universal attention, and was pronounced by all observers as the most complete consummation and perfection of labor-saving harvesting machines.

Again, at the World's Paris Exposition of 1878, Mr. Wood reaped the highest prize and honor, the prize being "an object of Art," and the honor of being promoted to "The Cross of Officer of the Legion of Honor."

It is unnecessary, in this brief sketch, to enumerate the many conquests that Mr. Wood has achieved over all American machines of the like kinds in this country, inasmuch as his name has become a household word throughout the length and breadth of the land. His exhibits at the Centennial Show at Philadelphia, in the year 1876, and at State and County Agricultural Fairs innumerable, have brought to him over fifteen hundred invaluable prizes.

His palatial mansion at Hoosick Falls is a perfect museum of Rewards of Merit, which fails to move him to pride or vain-glory.

The Church never lacks a warm and liberal friend, or the State a good citizen: his hand is always open to the wants of the poor: and mechanics and clerks in his employment who make an honest effort to advance in the world, always find favor and encouragement at his hands. Being a self-made man, nothing delights him more than to see others succeed.

During the thirty-six years of his active business life, Mr. Wood has never failed to meet his engagements; although one disaster after another came upon him, sometimes in quick succession, which might discourage and overwhelm others, he rallied all his energies and soon overcame them. For tenacity of purpose he was most remarkable.

In the year 1860, his entire works were destroyed by fire, with partial insurance, and at a time approaching a harvest, when, under obligations to supply machines to his customers, with a will and purpose peculiar to himself, he rallied his men and took the lead personally to clear away the rubbish, and in the short space of eighty days the shops were reconstructed and in working order. Again, in 1870, the same calamity overtook the works, and in like manner they were restored in sixty days.

The true secret of Mr. Wood's success may be attributed to the fact that he never would allow a machine to be sold to the farmers until he had fully tested its merits and was personally certain that it would do the work claimed for it.

Mr. Wood is not, in the narrow sense of the word, a politician, his business interests engaging most of his time. During the Rebellion, he made his influence felt in the right direction, and rendered valuable service in helping the families of those who enlisted in their country's cause, and since that time has been a declared Republican.

During his absence from the country, attending the World's Fair at Paris, in 1878, he was nominated for Congress by his party in the 17th Congressional district, composed of Washington and Rensselaer Counties. Upon his return in October, previous to the election in November following, there was no time left for him to consider the matter; his reception at his home at Hoosick Falls was so cordial and overwhelming, that he yielded to the wishes of his friends and accepted the honor. Notwithstanding the district had, the year previous, elected a democratic Senator, Charles Hughes, by about five hundred majority, he came out of the canvass with seven thousand majority. He was re-nominated in 1880 and was re-elected by a majority of seventeen thousand.

During his four years in Congress he faithfully represented his constituents and his party, and expressed no regrets when his term expired, as his tastes and habits of life made it more congenial for him to be about his own business and in the enjoyment of his home and family, than in the whirlpool of politics.

Incidents occur in the life of most men that demonstrate their peculiar characteristics, by means of which they make lifelong impressions and friendships.

When Mr. Wood was a young man, and in the employ of a prominent manufacturer, and turned out a larger number of pieces than any other employé, it was remarked to him, in a playful manner, that he exceeded all others in the number of pieces daily. He quickly replied, "Does not the scriptures say, 'blessed are the peace-makers.'" &c. This man, who lived to a good old age, never failed to interest himself in Mr. Wood's success in all his business enterprises, and often reminded him of the "piece-makers." May not our young men seek for an incentive to industry that excels!

It is difficult to estimate the immense value the Wood inventions have been to the world. It is perfectly safe to say that hundreds of millions of dollars is not excessive in making up the account, and some parties claim that the sum total more than pay our present national debt! May we not claim for Mr. Wood that he has been a benefactor to his own country and to the agricultural world, and now lives to see the words of Revelation fulfilled: "He that is diligent in his calling shall stand before kings."

ELIPHALET WOOD.

ELIPHALET WOOD, son of Aaron Wood and Rebeckah (Wright) Wood, was born February 1st, 1819, at Washington, Berkshire Co., Mass. Unlike his brothers, William Anson and Walter Abbott, he did not take to the workshop, but at an early age decided to be a merchant, and, suiting the action to the word, found a situation behind the counter of a dry goods house in the city of Albany, N. Y., in the year 1835.

His diligent attention to business in the old established and well known wholesale dry goods house of Gaylor & Smith Sheldon, secured to himself a position as junior partner in the year 1840, under the title of Gaylor, Sheldon & Co., subsequently it was changed to that of Sheldons & Wood, where he continued in active business relations until March, 1854, when he parted with his interest to Sheldons & Co., and in May removed with his family to the growing city of Chicago, entering the lumber business under the name and title of the "Newaygo Co."

The mills and landed estate of the Company were located in Michigan, at Newaygo, on the Muskegon river; the company erected the first gang-saw-mill west of Saginaw, running one hundred and fifty saws, with a capacity to manufacture one hundred thousand feet of pine lumber daily.

Eliphalet Wood was the sole resident partner at Chicago, where their sales of their own make of lumber, for eighteen years, averaged over ten million feet yearly.

The introduction of gang-sawed lumber into that market gained rapid favor, so that very soon thereafter all the enterprising manufacturers adopted the use of gang-saws. The advantage gained in their use over all other saws then in vogue, was in the economy of timber and the producing of lumber free from "stub-shots," smooth, and of uniform widths and thickness.

Eliphalet Wood took a prominent part in the organization of the first Lumberman's Board of Trade in that city, and in the introduction of uniform rules of inspection, and acted as Secretary to the Board. He was also well known in the political circles of the city, always holding to conservative opinions, acting with the Bell and Everett party, and was nominated for the office of Mayor of Chicago by that party in the spring of 1860, but declined the honor on account of large business responsibilities.

When the civil war came upon the country in April, 1861, Eliphalet Wood was among the first of the loyal and patriotic citizens to "rally around the old flag" for the protection of the union of States, "one and inseparable," and was appointed a member of the "Union Defence Committee" at the first mass meeting called for the purpose of raising funds for the arming and equipping soldiers for the war, and by that committee selected to serve on the Finance and Military Organization Department. This organization was rendered indispensable in the absence of regular army officers, and did most invaluable service in raising money and men at a critical time in the history of the country, acting as they did, under orders from the Governor of the State of Illinois, and from General Frémont, who was in command of that division of the U. S. Army, and located at St. Louis.

The "Union Defence Committee" were remarkably efficient in the work of inducing volunteers into the army and succeeded in dispatching a regiment to Cairo, under the command of Col. R. K. Swift, in time to keep that strategic point out of the hands of the confederates. They also sent into the State of Missouri several regiments and batteries at a critical time, where they rendered invaluable service in retaining that State in the Union.

The "Union Defence Committee" was composed of twelve distinguished citizens of each of the two leading parties, and one Bell and Everett partisan; they devoted their time for nearly two years without pay or emolument. At the final closing of their business connection with the Government, Eliphalet Wood, in conjunction with Col. James H. Bowen and Charles G. Wicker, was commissioned by the committee to visit Washington and conclude a final settlement with the Government, covering all their transactions. Such settlement was honorably concluded after seven weeks of indefatigable labor, Eliphalet Wood, only, remaining to the last, receipting for the money paid by the Government, amounting to several hundred thousand dollars, and then safely returned the same to the officers of the "Union Defence Committee" (who disbursed it quickly to the almost numberless creditors of the Government), for which service he received the unanimous vote of thanks of the Committee.

Mr. Wood was active and liberal in all church relations, holding the office of trustee and treasurer of the Presbyterian Northwest Theological Seminary of Chicago at a time in its history when greatly embarrassed; he also served on the Building Committee, retaining his position until he left that city, in 1869, to reside at Irvington-on-the-Hudson, where he still lives comparatively retired from the active business of a busy life, which has by no means been free from anxiety, perplexity and toil. During his residence at Irvington, he has taken a deep interest in the schools in the township, and served nine years with zeal on the Board of Education, during most of the time as President of the Board.

At the present time he holds the office of Manager of the Walter A. Wood Mowing and Reaping Machine Co., in New York City, in which company he is a stockholder, and for many years has felt a lively interest.

Success he considers man's general highest ambition ; "but that a good name with success is far better, and none can attain unto it without a struggle."

BENNET WOOD (7) AND DESCENDANTS.

Bennet Wood, the fifth child of Jeremiah and Dorathy, was born in Littleton, Mass., Mar. 15, 1717; he was married to Lydia Law of Acton, Mass., in Jan., 1739, by Rev. John Swift, the first minister of Acton. Bennet was a housewright. After the death of his younger brother, Jeremiah, he bought most of the shares falling to his brothers and sisters. Their deeds to Bennet are recorded at Cambridge, Mass.

Lydia, wife of Bennet, and mother of his children, died Feb. 27, 1765, aged 54 yrs., 1 mo., 13 da., and is buried among the Wood families in Littleton.

Bennet m. second wife, Mrs. Isabel Taylor, the daughter of the first Dea. John Wood and Sarah, his wife, of Littleton. Her first husband was Oliver Taylor, who died June 2, 1759, in his 45th year.

I find nothing to show that the first Dea. John Wood, who married Sarah, was any connection of our branch. He was neither father, brother nor son of Jeremiah. He was one of the Selectmen with Jeremiah, as shown by their orders upon the Treasurer.

Bennet was a prominent and enterprising citizen, as his numerous deeds and business transactions show. He was interested in the church and formation of the new town of Boxboro', and did much to make success certain.

From the gravestones of Bennet Wood and his second wife, in the cemetery at Boxboro', I extract the following :

“ In memory of
Mr. BENNET WOOD,
who departed this life
Apr. 28, 1797.
in the 81st year of his age.”

“ In memory of
Mrs. ISABEL WOOD
Relict of Mr. Bennet Wood in the 84th year of her age.”

Near them is buried Lois Wood, dau. of Jeremiah and Elizabeth Wood, and granddaughter of Bennet Wood, who died Feb. 1, 1782, at the age of 15 years, 2 months and 22 days.

JOHN WOOD.

JOHN WOOD, sixth child of Jeremiah and Dorathy Wood, was born Feb. 3, 1719, in Littleton, upon the estate now owned in part by his descendants. He was in his twelfth year when his father, Jeremiah, died.

A large portion of the real estate was set to him. His mother, Dorathy, was made his guardian,—her thirds set next to his portion, and at her decease, in 1752, her real estate was divided between Bennet and John. John was to pay the shares of his sisters Mrs. Elizabeth Robins, wife of Benjamin Robins; Mrs. Lucy Chase, wife of George Chase, and Mrs. Sarah Chase, wife of Joseph Chase, and a part of the share of Eliphalet. Bennet was to pay the remainder of Eliphalet's share, Joseph's heirs, and Jonathan. Joseph's children were Benjamin, Aaron and Grace.

The above were the heirs of the widow of Jeremiah Wood in 1752. [Entered Lib. 43, p. 460.]

John Wood, son of Jeremiah, married in Harvard, Mass., Oct. 19, 1743, Lydia Davis, daughter of Ebenezer and Sarah Davis of Harvard. She was born Sept. 7, 1724.

They had seven children, as follows:

491. SARAH, b. Aug. 2, 1744; d. Nov. 2, 1746.
492. LYDIA, b. Apr. 22, 1746; m. Oliver Davis.
493. JOHN, b. Sept. 3, 1747; d. May 4, 1826.
494. TIMOTHY, b. July 29, 1749; d. July 18, 1801.
495. SARAH, b. July 27, 1751.
496. EBENEZER, b. Jan. 20, 1754; d. Dec. 28, 1840.
497. SALMON, b. Aug. 15, 1758; d. Feb. 25, 1823.

We find John Wood, the father of the above named children, Constable and Collector at the age of twenty-four, a prominent and successful man, had pleasant surroundings for those times, and had a promising young family, but death called him away in his fortieth year. He died Apr. 8, 1758. His wife remained a widow for several years, then "May ye 21, 1765, Capt. David Goodridge of Fitchburg, and Mrs. Lydia Wood was joined in marriage by the Rev. Mr. Daniel Rogers of Littleton, as by a certificate under his hand." She outlived her second husband. David Goodridge made his will Apr. 28, 1782. He named sons and daughters in his will as follows: David Goodridge, Ebenezer Goodridge, Abijah Goodridge, Hannah Mellen, Eunice Farwell and John Goodridge.

His widow gave Power of Attorney to her son, John Wood, Apr. 6, 1787, expressly on account of her Dowry.

In the settlement of the estate of her first husband, John Wood, the heirs were John Wood, Timothy Wood, Ebenezer Wood, Salmon Wood, and Lydia Davis.

The brother of their mother, Zadok Davis, was guardian for John and Timothy. John had the homestead, including the widows' third, when he became of age, which was after her marriage to David Goodridge.

In the distribution of the mother's personal property, in 1792, she remembered her four sons by John Wood, and her granddaughter Sarah Gary, and gave six shillings each to the six brothers of Sarah Gary.

John and Lydia are both buried among the Wood families in Littleton. The following is from their grave-stones:

" Here lies buried the body of
JOHN WOOD,
who departed this life
April y^e 8, A. D.; 1758,
& in y^e 40th year of his age."

“ In memory of
MRS. LYDIA WOOD, wife of
MR. JOHN WOOD,
 and late wife to
DEA. DAVID GOODRIDGE, of Fitchburg,
 who died
 Jan’y 13, 1792, aged
67 years, 4 months and six days.”

DEA. JOHN WOOD.

493. JOHN WOOD, son of John and Lydia (Davis) Wood, was born in Littleton, Mass., Sept. 3, 1747, O. S. He married Lucy Martin in 1769, and had eleven children. He settled upon the home place and prospered. He built for himself a very fine residence about 1790, which is still in excellent condition.

John Wood was a highly respected citizen, holding various offices of trust. We notice by receipts that he was Clerk of the Littleton Company in the Revolution. Among his papers we find the evidence of his being guardian for more than a dozen children besides his own.

In the Church records of Littleton I find the following :

“ 24 May, 1793. At a meeting of the Church for the purpose of choosing one or more persons to serve in the office of Deacon, the question was put whether the church would proceed to the choice of a person, or persons to serve in that office, and it passed in the affirmative. After looking up to heaven for direction in the important business before us, the church proceeded, with great unanimity, and made choice first, of Mr. John Wood, and secondly, of Mr. Daniel Kimball to that office.”

“ Sept. 22, 1822. Stayed the Church after divine service to hear and act on the request of Dea. John Wood and Samuel Hoar to be released from further providing the Sacramental Elements, and from serving at the Table in the seasons of communion, and other persons might be chosen in their stead.

“ The Church voted to release them from the above duties in the future.

“ The Church then voted their thanks to ‘ Deacon John Wood and Deacon Samuel Hoar for their long and faithful service they had rendered to the church in this place.’

“ The Church then, Oct. 14, 1822, Chose Benjamin Dix and Martin Wood, a son of Dea. John Wood, to fill the vacancies.”

Deacon John Wood died in Littleton, May 4, 1826, in the 79th year of his age. Upon his gravestone in Littleton, is the following :

“ Farewell dear friend and children too,
God has called me home.
In a short time he'll call for you,
Prepare yourselves to come.”

502. Lucy Martin, wife of Dea. John Wood, was daughter of George Martin and Eunice Burnham, his wife. Lucy (Martin) Wood was born in Old Ipswich, Mass., July 11, 1751, O. S. She died in Littleton, Mass., Feb. 20, 1836. Upon her gravestone is the following :

“ Farewell my friends, my children dear,
My Savior calls me home.
My Savior calls my children too,
Prepare yourselves to come.”

At her decease she had eight children living and three dead ; sixty-nine grandchildren living and twenty-two dead ; forty-seven great-grandchildren living and eleven dead. Total descendants living, one hundred twenty-four ; dead, thirty-six. Total living and dead, one hundred and sixty.

Her father died previous to 1781, and was probably living in 1777, from some business transactions in Dea. John Wood's accounts.

Eunice (Burnham) Martin, her mother, died in Littleton, Dec. 2, 1818, and was buried in Lunenburg, Mass.

I quote from the Burnham Genealogy, which includes the birth of Eunice Burnham and her marriage to George Martin :—

“From the best information obtainable at the present day it would appear that the three boy brothers, John, Thomas and Robert, sons of Robert and his wife, Mary (Andrews) Burnham of Norwich, Norfolk Co., England, came to America early in 1635; that they came in the ship Angel Gabriel, in charge of their maternal uncle, Capt. Andrews, master of the said ship; that they were wrecked on the coast of Maine; that with the freight thrown overboard to relieve the vessel at the time of the disaster, was a chest (containing valuables) belonging to the three boys; that the boys came to Chebacco, in the Colony of Massachusetts Bay, with their uncle, Capt. Andrews, who, having lost his ship settled there, the boys remaining with him; John and Thomas served (boys as they were) in the Pequot expedition. When grown to manhood, John and Thomas remained at Chebacco and became Freemen there. Robert removed to Boston, and while there became one of the company who purchased the town of Dover, N. H., to which place he removed, erected his ‘garrison house’ at Oyster river, became an inhabitant, and his descendants are still there.

John was appointed deacon of the church at Chebacco. He became the owner of a large tract of land lying on the east side of what is now known as ‘Haskell’s Creek.’ Many of his descendants removed from Chebacco and settled in other places. Ebenezer, his grandson, removed to Windham Co., Conn., and himself became the ancestor of a numerous progeny. Others removed to New Hampshire and Maine.

Thomas was commissioned as Lieutenant, was deputy to the General Court, was Selectman and on Town Committees.

He owned much land, both in Chebacco and Ipswich, and a saw-mill upon Chebacco river.

In the town of Essex, Mass., a large proportion of its inhabitants are Burnhams, and are descended from Lieut. Thomas, Sen., through his son John. The Norwich, Conn., Burnhams are descendants from Lieut. Thomas, Sen.

There are also many of the name of Andrews, probably descended from Capt. Andrews, brother of the mother of the three Burnham boys."

The descendants of these three brothers have made various attempts to obtain the immense estate believed to be still held in England for heirs of the Burnham descent now in America, but as yet without success. Meetings have been held, counsel employed, and correspondence entered into; some of which is published in the Burnham Genealogy.

Capt. Amariah Wood, son of Dea. John and Lucy (Martin) Wood, says in a paper to the writer, January 3, 1856:

“My mother’s name was Lucy Martin. Her father, George Martin, lived in old Ipswich; moved from there to Lunenburg, Mass.

Her mother’s name was Burnham. Her ancestor, Martin, was a weaver in England; his wife was one of the higher classes; her parents were opposed to her marrying a weaver, and they came to America. My mother’s great-grandfather’s name was Dergy; he was the King of England’s Cup-bearer.

My mother’s brother Jonathan was settled on his father’s place; had a numerous family, whose descendants are, some in Gardner, Mass. ; some in Worcester, Mass. ; one in Westfield, Mass., many of whom are great musicians and teachers of penmanship.

Her brother, John Martin, was a Doctor. He was sick at sea the last he was heard from. Joseph was a Doctor, — went to Connecticut. My mother's sister Eunice married Abijah Goodridge ; settled in Fitchburg, Mass., had a numerous family. My mother's sister Polly married Mr. Jones, settled in Rindge, N. H., and I believe had the greatest number of children of any of the family."

I record some names found in account books of Dea. John Wood, which may help in future genealogical work : Capt. David Goodridge, Timothy Wood, Ebenezer Wood, Salmon Wood, 1789, widow Eunice Martin, 1786, Joseph Martin, 1784, Jonathan Martin, 1781, George Martin, 1777, Thomas Wood, Deliverance Davis, Capt. David Goodridge, Eliphalet Wood and many others.

CARSHENA WOOD.

CARSHENA WOOD (510), son of Dea. John and Lucy (Martin) Wood, was a man of ability, but had no ambition for public display so far as he was concerned, and avoided, if possible, every public office.

He was an ingenious man, learned the cooper's trade, but was always a farmer. He first settled in Ashby, Mass., but upon the death of his brother John, he sold his estate there, and was settled upon the homestead of his father, grandfather, and great-grandfather, and resided in the house built for his brother John, near the house of his father, the remainder of his life.

He never occupied the fine residence of his father, although it was long in his possession after his parents' decease.

He was a man of strict integrity, was punctiliously exact in all his engagements, and dealt honorably with every one,—was a good neighbor and townsman, an early member and regular attendant of his church.

His descendants are numerous and scattered.

JOHN H. WOOD.

JOHN H. WOOD (658), son of Carshena and Tryphena Lawrence Wood, whose portrait appears in this volume, was born in Littleton, Mass., Dec. 4, 1816. When about fourteen years of age he was engaged with his brother Carshena on the steamer General Lincoln, plying between Boston and Hingham.

Afterwards made a brief stay in Lowell, Mass., and attended a seminary in Manchester, Vt.

He then learned the shoemaker's trade, with his brother-in-law, B. W. Priest, and continued in that business until he left the States, in Feb., 1846, the latter part of the time as foreman of John Fletcher's manufactory, Acton, Mass.

In June, 1841, he married Lucy Amanda Priest, daughter of Benj. Priest of Boxboro', Mass., and sister of B. W. Priest, who had previously married John's sister, Eunice Martin Wood.

John's wife died May, 1845, and her three sisters, within a few months, all of consumption. No children by this marriage.

The next year, Feb. 1846, he sailed from Newburyport, Mass., in the Hermaphrodite Brig Henry, 155 tons, Capt. Kilborn, bound for Oregon, via Cape Horn and the Sandwich Islands, with a crew of thirteen, including stewardess and cabin boy, eighteen passengers, among whom was his brother, Oral J. R. Wood, W. L. Lee, subsequently Chief Justice and Chancellor of the Hawaiian Kingdom, Charles R. Bishop, now the wealthy banker there.

The passage was very long, tedious, and somewhat eventful. Said the subject of this sketch to the writer :

"South of the Equator, in the Atlantic, our crew mutinied while the Captain was dangerously sick, and were only prevented from throwing the chief mate overboard by my brother,

Respectfully
Jno. H. Wood

myself, and two other passengers, while in the act, with his body over the rail. This necessitated our putting into St. Catherine, Brazil,—part of our crew in irons, where our first mate, wife, child, and a maiden lady passenger, left and returned to the States. We were 46 days off Cape Horn, battling with adverse winds, storms of rain, snow and sleet; at one time with two feet of snow on deck; at another, every block, sheave, rope and sail frozen solid and covered with ice to twice their thickness; at another time, 40 hours, dragged (vessel made fast by long hawser to heavy oak planks, to keep her head to the wind while she rode mountainous waves). We were two weeks without an observation by day or night,—our last was in 62° South; after which were driven south and east until near Palmer's land, and talked of going round Cape of Good Hope.

Passengers had to break out cargo, almost daily, to get wood to cook their food; had to stand watch of mate and men sick and disabled; got out of very many articles of provisions while off the Horn, and were short of wood, water and provisions to port; and, before reaching it had burned all the spare spars, booms and berth material in the vessel. Reached the Sandwich Islands after a passage of 231 days, having sailed in that cockleshell nearly twenty-five thousand miles, and found we had been preceded by a report from the mate left in Brazil, that passengers and crew had taken money and goods put on board for the missionaries at the Islands, hoisted the black flag, and were gone in pursuit of further booty.

Soon after landing I erected the first brick building in Honolulu, and opened a shoe store in connection with manufacturing with material I brought with me, and such as I could pick up, until I could get orders filled from the United States, which required from 17 to 20 months; continued that business nineteen years and ten months successfully.

Upon the discovery of gold in California, my brother Oral and myself, and six others, formed a company and went to mining there. In August, 1849, I went via Isthmus to Massachusetts, purchased a stock of goods, married in November the only daughter of Jacob Hardy of Salem, Mass., and with her and a cousin, Jacob Hardy, now District Judge on the Island of Kauai, came again around Cape Horn in the good ship

Charles, Capt. Andrews, arriving in Honolulu in May, 1850, after a very pleasant passage.

When I left California for the east, my brother Oral returned to Honolulu and took charge of my business. When I returned he took the situation of Prefect of Police, or Deputy Marshal and Deputy District Attorney, which he held for some years, when he had realized a handsome little fortune.

I bought in 1851, a house lot 200 ft. square, in Honolulu, and ordered a house got out in Boston, sending for a carpenter, Mr. C. E. Williams, who had married my sister Harriet, to attend to its preparation and shipment, and to come out with it if he chose and put it up. This he did, coming with his wife around the Horn, and has since been in the furniture and undertaking business here. In 1856 or '7, I sent for my youngest brother, Henry, who entered my employ as bookkeeper and salesman, and continued with me some eight or nine years, the latter part of the time taking entire charge of my business in town.

My first child, Florence Amanda, was born March 25, 1851, and my daughter, Stella May, was born May 1, 1856. Two sons died in infancy.

In November, 1857, my wife and two daughters took passage in the fine clipper ship John Gilpin, bound to Boston, for a visit to home and friends in Massachusetts. Off Cape Horn at 2 A. M., the ship struck an iceberg, springing a leak, and at 4 P. M., next day went down. Fortunately, a large old East Indiaman, British, Capt. Scott, was sighted the morning after the collision, saw the signal of distress, bore down, and though a very heavy sea running, sent boats well manned and took off passengers and crew in safety. Bedding was thrown in the boat and my wife and children tossed from a port on to it, leaving all their clothing, valuables, presents for friends, &c., behind; but very fortunately, through my wife's thoughtfulness, saving $5,000.00 in gold coin I had placed in charge of the Captain as a remittance to my agent in Boston. The English ship (Herefordshire), from Valparaiso for London, on account of so large an addition to her numbers, put into Bahia for supplies, where a part of the Gilpin's passengers took passage, through the American Consul, for New York, while my family and some others continued on in the Herefordshire for London. Some days out from Bahia, on a calm day, they fell in with the small clipper ship Sunny South, bound to New York. Capt. Scott had his family on board; the ships 'spoke' each other and Mrs. S. requested that the Captain of the Sunny South be invited on board to lunch, which was accepted, and during his stay, wrecked passengers were alluded to, which resulted in their being offered a passage to New York. Accepted and arrived in safety.

It had been arranged that I should meet my family in May, via California and the Isthmus, in Boston. While crossing the Isthmus in the cars, and perusing a paper bought in Panama, I saw a notice of the 'wreck off Cape Horn of the John Gilpin. No particulars.' You can possibly imagine my feelings and anxiety from that time until I reached New York, where letters awaited me.

After a visit to home and friends, the family returned to Honolulu, where the wife and mother died in January, 1860."

In 1863, Mr. Wood took charge of his sugar plantation, 2 1-2 miles from Honolulu, where he continued the cultivation of cane and the manufacture of sugar until 1871, when he turned it into a stock and dairy farm.

He married third wife, widow Lucy Ann Houghton, née Hobert. He resides upon a portion of his town property in Honolulu, a man of integrity and influence.

His oldest daughter, Florence A., married Pierre Jones, now in mercantile business, and resides at Lahaina, Island of Maui, Hawaiian Islands. He was a graduate of a university, was a teacher of English, French and German for some years, and speaks Italian, Spanish, and Hawaiian. His father, Thomas G. Jones, was principal of a military school at St. Petersburg, married a Russian Princess, by whom he had the one son and two daughters; one residing with her father at Brussels, Belgium; the other, the wife of a banker at Amsterdam, Holland, and mother of four children. John H. Wood remarked: "I had the pleasure of meeting them all at their homes in 1883, and was highly gratified with their refinement and amiability."

The son Pierre, who married Florence A. Wood, has one daughter, born in May, 1883, Mary Nalanialua; the latter name, by request of her godmother, the Queen Dowager Emma, its signification, — there are two in Heaven.

John H. Wood's second daughter, Stella May, married Albert F. Dixon. He entered the Navy as engineer, Oct., 1870. His parents now reside at West Medford, Mass. His father, John A. Dixon, a Naval officer about to be retired.

Albert F. is now located at the Bureau of Engineering, Navy Dept., Washington, D. C. Has one son, born Sept., 1875, named John Albert Wood Dixon.

JAMES HAYWARD.

JAMES HAYWARD (516), was born in Boxboro', Mass., Jan. 2, 1779; lived there with the exception of years 1804 and 5, during his life; was named for his uncle, James Hayward, of Acton, Mass., who fell at Lexington, April 19, 1775, the day of the Concord fight, beginning of the Revolutionary war. He was a successful farmer and one of the largest cultivators of hops in the State for many years. Frequently held positions of trust in town affairs. Always ready to lend a helping hand to the sick or needy. He married Eunice, daughter of Dea. John Wood, of Littleton, Mass., April 29, 1806. They had nine children, and in 1884 their descendants were as follows: Children dead 6, living 3; grandchildren, 7 dead, 21 living; great grandchildren, 10 dead and 32 living; whole number dead 23, living 56, total 79.

I copy from the Boston Recorder of Dec. 10, 1846:

"DEATH OF A WHOLE FAMILY IN BOXBOROUGH.

"On the 28th of September, Paul Hayward, youngest son of Mr. James Hayward, of Boxborough, and then a member of Phillips Academy, at Andover, came home sick with the typhoid fever. He was very sick three weeks, and died at the age of 20 years and 10 months, greatly lamented.

"About a week before he died his father and mother, Mr. James and Mrs. Eunice Hayward, were both taken sick with the same disease. Mrs. Hayward died October 30, ten days after her son, aged 65, and her husband died Nov. 11, twelve days after his wife, aged 68. These parents left children who are all married and settled, but themselves and the above named son constituted their whole present family, and are all cut off by death in the short space of twenty-two days."

They were all professors of religion, and were exemplary and respected. The Lowell Journal said:

"Mr. Hayward was an excellent man and universally esteemed by those who knew him."

Less than five years before, their highly respected son, John Hayward, died at the age of twenty-six.

James Wood Hayward, son of James and Eunice (Wood) Hayward, resides in West Acton, Mass. He has been an active and enterprising man. He worked for his father, or attended school, until he was 24 years of age, taught school three terms where he went to school in his youth, then for ten years marketed farmers' produce, and for twelve years following was an extensive contractor of milk which he took into Boston in R. R. cars prepared for that purpose. Since then has been engaged in farming. Is a prominent man in his town. He was a Captain of Infantry, commissioned by Gov. Levi Lincoln; also served in the Cavalry. He has done much to prepare the records of his branch for this volume.

Stevens Hayward, son of James and Eunice Wood Hayward, after an academic education, taught school in his native town, and in Acton; but he was settled on his father's homestead, and has lived there most of his life. A substantial and honorable citizen.

Lucy Ann Hayward, sister of the above, married Thomas Burbeck, who was in the dry goods and grocery business, and flouring-mill, at Racine, Wisconsin, at the time of his death, Sept. 21, 1870. His widow, in 1877, returned to Massachusetts, and is now living near her old home.

Should be pleased to mention more of the grandchildren than space will permit. Several have been very successful in business pursuits.

Rev. Joel Francis Fairbanks, son of Emory and Eunice (Hayward) Fairbanks, graduate of Amherst College, 1862; Princeton Theological Seminary, 1863; Union Theological Seminary, 1864. Ordained pastor Congregational Church in 1864. Since 1877, pastor Congregational Church, West Boylston, Mass.

Joseph Whitcomb Fairbanks, A. M., Ph. D., son of Emory and Eunice Hayward Fairbanks. Grad. of Amherst College, 1866; Principal of High School, So. Hadley Falls, '66-'68; of Centre School, Norwalk, Conn., '68-'74; of Dix Street Grammar School, Worcester, Mass., '74-'75; of High School, Worcester, '75-'78; of Williston Seminary, Easthampton, Mass., since '78. Ph. D., Amherst, 1879; visited Europe in '82.

John Quincy Hayward, son of Stevens and Charlotte (Conant) Hayward. Graduate of Amherst College, 1882; Principal of the High School, Bolton, Mass.

AMARIAH WOOD.

AMARIAH WOOD was a son of Dea. John Wood of Littleton, Mass., who was the son of John, son of Jeremiah.

He thoroughly learned the trades of tanner and currier, and carried on that business about a quarter of a century in Bolton, Massachusetts.

He married and had a large family of children by his first wife; he had no children by his second wife.

Amariah Wood was an honored citizen, having held civil offices of trust. I also have before me a commission as Lieutenant, given him by Gov. Caleb Strong of Massachusetts, and a commission as Captain. To the former office he was elected Nov. 27, 1812, and the latter May 3, 1814, and was Captain of an independent company later.

He was a conscientious and upright man, of marked ability and scholarly attainments,—was a persistent student all his life, and was always ready for research in science and metaphysics,—was a close student of the Bible and was guided by it. He was skilled in musical composition, and took much pleasure in it. Selections from his manuscripts were published long after his decease. He often had original music to use at the meetings of the family.

His conversations in later years were masterly, having accurate knowledge and a clear logical mind, thoroughly disciplined.

In his last days he purchased a home near Worcester, Mass., where some of his children had settled.

Here he, and the able and estimable wife of his early and maturer years and the mother of all his children, rested from their labors.

Amariah Wood

He was born in Littleton, Mass., Sept. 9, 1785,—one century ago.

His portrait, from a copy of a daguerreotype, is bound in this volume.

GEORGE HOBBS WOOD.

GEORGE H. WOOD, of Providence, R. I., eldest son of Amariah and Hannah Wood, was for more than forty years foreman, or otherwise connected with the manufacturing establishment of Wm. Chase & Sons, of Providence. He was a student in Harvard University,—he did not graduate on account of sickness, but never lost his interest in literary pursuits and scientific investigation. He was a man of intelligence and good judgment, and his opinions with reference to business and other matters were sought by very many of his fellow-citizens.

He held offices of honor and trust, but always refused when he could consistently do so. He was respected and greatly beloved by all who knew him.

The following message to his children was written by him in his latest account book which was found after his decease :—

“ How can I attempt to write, feeling as I do at the present time, — this mortal body has almost performed its last task, — my earthly career is nearly ended ; disease has already attacked my body and fatal will be the result.

“ I would address a few words, dear children, to you, that after this hand that now writes is cold and stiff or mingled with the mother earth, and this spirit that now prompts the hand what to write shall have departed, you may read, reflect and soberly consider what may be advantageous in your short journey of life.

“ I hope you will read the Sacred Scriptures, particularly the New Testament, — that you will pay particular attention to the commands of Jesus Christ, and that these you will follow.

“ In all your dealings, in whatever you say or do, keep in remembrance this command, and follow it as far as in you is possible :

“ ‘ Do unto others as ye would that others should do unto you ; ’ be patient, be charitable, love one another, and prepare for death. The time will soon come when you must also be laid with me in the silent tomb, when the time of your probation will expire. Improve the time in doing good, and may your reward be great when you are called at the judgment.

GEORGE H. WOOD.”

A beautiful monument marks his resting-place and that of members of his family, in North End Cemetery, Providence, Rhode Island.

AMARIAH M. AND JOHN WOOD.

The brothers Amariah Martin and John Wood married sisters.

For many years they were in the tanning and currying business, under the firm name of A. M. & J. Wood.

Later in life both were interested in farming in Illinois. John was also in the real estate business in Cleveland, Ohio, where his daughter, Abbie Eliza, before her marriage was a successful teacher for about ten years.

Amariah M. had three sons in the Union Army during the great Civil War: George Patterson, who was killed in the battle before Vicksburg, Miss.; Frank Amariah, who died in hospital at Nashville, Tenn.; and Oliver Atherton, who was severely wounded at the battle of Perryville, Ky. The latter is married, has a family, and is settled on the home place of his father.

JAMES LAWRENCE ESTEY.

JAMES LAWRENCE ESTEY and family have long resided in Worcester, Massachusetts; he went there in March, 1829, as an apprentice to the printing business, and has followed that occupation constantly from that time until the present year, 1885, and he is still in the establishment of Charles Hamilton, the printer of this book, where he has been constantly employed since 1862.

From 1840 to 1853 he was employed on the Worcester Spy. Although in the same business for himself elsewhere, for a time, he returned with pleasure to Worcester where he has a pleasant home, and is a most genial and worthy husband, brother, father and friend.

His son, George L. Estey, also resides in Worcester, which has been his home the most of his life, excepting a year in Minnesota and Illinois, and two or three in California.

LUCIUS FRANCIS WOOD.

LUCIUS FRANCIS WOOD is a deacon in the Baptist Church and has been for more than a score of years,—has written many hymns; is engaged in the manufacture and sale of medicines, &c.; has accomplished much good; residence West Townsend, Mass.

His son, Francis Warren, was a great sufferer in consequence of a long imprisonment in the rebel prison at Salisbury, North Carolina, during the war of the rebellion.

HENRY EDWARD WARREN.

HENRY EDWARD WARREN was a man beloved by all who knew him.

He was remarkably active in his business, which he continued successfully until his death.

He was buried in his family lot in the Shrewsbury, Mass., cemetery, where he had previously laid to rest five of his children, viz: Lucius Henry, Charlotte Eliza, Edward Marshall, Frank Wilder, and Annah Elizabeth.

His widow lives in Worcester, Mass.; her son, Edgar William Warren and family, residing with her.

LOWELL MILTON WOOD.

From sixteen years of age, with the exception of three years at the Worcester Academy, Worcester, Mass., and a brief stay in Europe, Lowell M. Wood was a resident of Boston, Mass., where he was in business for more than a quarter of a century. He died there, and lies buried in Mount Hope Cemetery.

A man of ability, strict integrity and honor.

His widow, and daughter Josephine M. Wood reside upon the old homestead in Boston.

JOHN FARWELL.

JOHN FARWELL was a friend of the poor and unfortunate and cared for such for many years. He was Superintendent of the City Farm and Almshouse of the City of Worcester for nearly twenty years, and had other experience. No better evidence of his capacity and energy, as well as that of his wife, can be given than the oft-repeated commendations of the city authorities as published in the City Documents during the many years he held the position of Superintendent in Worcester.

He resigned in the spring of 1878, and removed to a farm owned by him in the westerly part of Hubbardston, Mass., which overlooks the village and the surrounding towns towards Worcester, and has a magnificent view of Wachusett mountain. His thoughts were led upwards by his surroundings, and August 21, 1878, his spirit was free; his body was buried in the beautiful cemetery at New Worcester, Mass.

His son, Henry A. Farwell, Esq., and family, have since occupied the home place.

THE HAND OF DEATH.

SKETCH OF THE CAREER OF A. J. JOHNSON, THE WELL-KNOWN PUBLISHER.

The telegraph announces the death, which occurred this morning at his residence in New York, of Mr. A. J. Johnson, the publisher of ‘Johnson’s Atlas of the World,’ ‘Johnson’s Universal Cyclopædia,’ and of other well-known works. Mr. Johnson was born in Wallingford, Vermont, Sept. 23, 1827. The only educational advantages which he enjoyed in his early youth were such as the common schools of his native State then afforded, supplemented by those of a brief course at the country academy. Thrown at length upon his own resources and obliged to earn his own living, he began active life as a teacher. This profession taught him many valuable lessons, which availed him much in his subsequent career; but it was not a profession which satisfied his restless spirit or even his ambition. The ‘subscription plan’ of selling books had already come into vogue, and as it promised success and good rewards to all active and energetic workers, Mr. Johnson was induced to leave his school and go into the field as a book canvasser. It was for him a fortunate move. One success led to and was followed by another, until at last he became enrolled in the guild of publishers, and found himself at the head of the greatest map-publishing house in the world, and 'Johnson's Atlas' became an authority whenever or wherever an atlas was to be consulted. In 1877 Mr. Johnson planned the greatest undertaking of his life—namely: his 'Universal Cyclopædia of Useful knowledge,' which was first put upon the market complete in four large volumes. In the preparation of this gigantic work upwards of a quarter of a million of dollars was paid to authors, the list of which included the ablest men in every walk of life. The undertaking has proved a most brilliant success, and brought increased wealth and reputation to its projector. Mr. Johnson was a marked man among men; of regular habits, untiring industry, and marvellous perseverance. He always sought out gentlemen as his employés, and would accept no other. Honest and honorable in all his dealings, fearless when he believed himself in the right, an unflinching antagonist when assailed, unselfish, modest, and unassuming, the best of friends, the most tender in his domestic relations—such is his record. He was in every sense of the word a self-made man, and by his energy and well-directed efforts was rewarded bounteously."

Horace Greeley was an intimate friend of Alvin Jewett Johnson, and was frequently a member of Mr. Johnson's family. Upon the anniversary of Mr. Greeley's sixty-first birthday, his family being absent in Europe, I find that a very large party was given to the literary friends of Horace Greeley by A. J. Johnson, at his fine residence in New York City. Their friendship was never broken.

The establishment of A. J. Johnson & Co., Publishers, is at 11 Great Jones street (near Broadway), New York.

Johnson's New Illustrated family Atlas of the World, with a New Treatise on Physical Geography, by Prof. A. Guyot, LL.D., was awarded the First Prize Medal at both Universal Expositions in Paris. This is the largest, most finely executed, and only illustrated Township Atlas of the World ever published.

Of "Johnson's Universal Cyclopædia" the greatest institutions of learning speak loudly in its favor, viz: Harvard University, Yale, Brown University, Dartmouth, Williams, Cornell University, Columbia, Amherst, Hamilton, Rochester University, Richmond, &c. I quote:

"FROM THE FACULTY OF YALE AND OTHER DISTINGUISHED GENTLEMEN OF NEW HAVEN.

"JOHNSON'S UNIVERSAL CYCLOPÆDIA, a work in four volumes, of nearly 1700 pages each, or about 6800 closely-printed pages, presents the following important features:

"It is convenient for ready reference; its most important articles are original productions, prepared for this work by men who are well known to be distinguished in the several departments of learning which they represent, each article being signed by the writer; it embraces a wide range of subjects—about 20,000 in each volume—and is especially adapted to the needs of American readers.

"An examination of it must convince any one that, as a table-book for the homes of the people and for the use of professional men, merchants, and manufacturers, it will prove to be a work of great usefulness.

"It is practically a geographical gazetteer, a biographical dictionary, a medical and legal manual, and a scientific repository. The treatment of the subjects is thorough and comprehensive, and at the same time simple and judiciously adapted to the requirements of general readers.

"A fortunate combination of circumstances has, under the energetic and persevering efforts of the chief editors, contributed to the securing of the co-operation of a large number of eminent writers, whose names will be recognized as among the best in the country in their respective branches of learning.

“The work contains a vast amount of useful knowledge, presented in a popular and convenient form, and at moderate price.

JONATHAN WOOD (11)

AND

DESCENDANTS.

JONATHAN WOOD, ninth child of Jeremiah and Dorathy Wood, was b. Aug. 3, 1727, in Littleton, Mass. He married Abigail Daby, in Sudbury, Mass., Mar. 8, 1749; settled in Stow, Mass.; had by first wife, Abigail, Sarah and Jonathan. The wife, Abigail Daby Wood, d. Dec. 26, 1764, aged 31 yrs. 11 mo. 26 da., and was buried in Stow beside Joseph Daby, the pioneer, who died Feb. 22, 1734, aged about 80 years. The Dabys were descendants of the ancestor Derby, in England; pronounced Derbi, or Darbi. Jonathan, Senior, m. second wife, Katherine Gardner, Dec. 18, 1765, by whom he had Katherine, Mary, Charlotte and Joseph. Katherine Gardner was a daughter of Rev. John Gardner and Mary Baxter, his wife. Her father graduated at Harvard College in 1715; ordained Nov. 18, 1720, and was minister of Stow, Mass., fifty-five years. Her brother Henry graduated at Harvard College in 1750, and was a member of the first Provincial Congress which met in Salem, Mass., Oct., 1774. Subsequently he was chosen Treasurer of the Province, by the first Congress. He was a member of the Academy of Arts and Sciences, and was considered a learned man, as well as an earnest and zealous patriot. His residence was the "Old Province House," Boston, Mass.

Mrs. Katherine Wood's aunt, Sarah Baxter, married Thomas Buckminster, of Framingham.

John Wood, the uncle of Katherine's husband, married Elizabeth Buckminster, a sister of Thomas, thus connecting the Buckminsters and Baxters with both the Jeremiah and John branches of the Wood family.

Mary Baxter, who married the Rev. John Gardner, was a dau. of the Rev. Joseph Baxter, of Medford, who was b. June 4, 1676, and his first wife, who was a dau. of Rev. John Fiske. The latter was of a family which begins on the records five generations earlier with Simon, lord of the Manor of Stradhaugh. Laxfield, Suffolk, England, in the time of Henry VI.

It was Mary's grandfather who first came to America.

Jonathan Wood, Esq., died Oct. 18, 1797. He was a prominent and honored man in public affairs, both military and civil. His second wife, Katherine, was b. in Stow, Sept. 9, 1729; d. Oct. 5, 1803.

Prior to 1780 (the exact date is not recorded), Zechariah and Abigail (Wood) Whitman removed to Westminster, Mass., a newly settled town lying at the foot of Mt. Wachusett. Here they purchased a section of land, erected buildings, and in 1798 we find in the valuation of homesteads by the government, that of Zechariah Whitman stood second of the one hundred and twenty-five estates.

Of the fourteen children of Zechariah and Abigail (Wood) Whitman, we give a brief record, as follows :

- 2608. SARAH W., b. June 5, 1775 ; m. Jos. Spaulding ; had 11 children.

Jonathan Whitman, d. July 11, 1829, aged 60 years.

Joseph Whitman; d. Oct. 4, 1860, aged 70 years.

The daughters, most of whom lived to an advanced age, were without an exception exemplary wives and mothers, exerting a marked influence on their several families. Our limits will not allow of an extended record of their descendants, who are numerous and widely scattered. Many of them have been noted for moral worth, as well as mental ability and culture, and have held positions of trust and honor.

The two eldest sons died comparatively young, but had held responsible offices, and were regarded as men of integrity and force of character. With their father's aid they built several large substantial houses, one of which was known (and kept for many years) as the "Whitman Tavern." They also built a mill (propelled by water power), where they run a "Grist-Mill" and "Saw-Mill," leasing a part for the manufacture of chairs, which has since become the principal manufacturing interest in the town.

Joseph, the youngest son, engaged early in mercantile pursuits, which, in connection with manufacturing business, and the co-partnership of his two eldest sons, he followed to the close of a long life. He held various town offices of trust and responsibility. He represented the town in the State Legislature, was for many years Justice of the Peace, and Postmaster for twenty-five years prior to his decease. He had eight children, viz:

2620. MARIA A., b. June 21, 1820; d. Dec. 12, 1853; unmarried.

Charles Jansen, of England, Sept. 23, 1845; d.
Mar. 2, 1871.

Dr. Jonathan Wood studied his profession with the famous Dr. Spring of Watertown, Mass.; found his wife there. He practiced largely in Stow until her death, which occurred Jan. 20, 1819. He died soon after, Aug. 29, 1822.

His oldest son, Jonathan, removed to Virginia, afterwards to North Carolina, and thence to Brownsville, Tennessee, where he was a merchant and had a large family.—See records farther on.

John Wood, the next oldest son, went to Norfolk, Va., when a mere lad, and at the early age of 18 was sent to England by his employers to buy goods.

He was quite successful for some years in trade at Richmond, Va., and was there at the burning of the theatre in which so many lives were lost.

He had the youngest brother, Francis, with him in business, and he educated his youngest sister, Hannah, in the best school in Philadelphia, giving her every advantage and accomplishment of the time. He was afterwards in business in Boston, and considered rich, and aided in fitting up the old Wood Mansion in Stow, then owned and occupied by his sister Sally and her husband. He was a man of mark and note at that time, but later was unsuccessful and lost all his property.

His youngest sister, thrown on her own resources, turned her educational accomplishments to advantage by opening a boarding school for young ladies in the old mansion at Stow. This soon became widely known, and was resorted to from the country by the daughters of the best families for finishing their studies. It was sustained by Miss Wood in good repute for fourteen years, until she had earned a competence, and retired from her work. The oldest daughter, Mary, after the death of her husband, in Boston, returned to Stow to live with her sisters, and in 1850, when Mr. and Mrs. Brooks went to Michigan, where their son, John W., was at the head of the Michigan Central Railroad, and the Wood Mansion was sold to strangers, Mary and Hannah removed to Concord, Mass., where they lived beloved and respected to a good old age. Hannah died, aged 75, in 1871, and Mary in 1879, at the great age of 92.

JONATHAN (2628) AND JANE (PROUDFIT) WOOD
AND THEIR DESCENDANTS.

JONATHAN WOOD, son of Dr. Jonathan and Sarah (Leathe) Wood, was born in Stow, Mass., about 20 miles from Boston, May 8, 1783. He early in life moved to the South, settling at Norfolk, Va., where he engaged in the wholesale mercantile business. For some time he and General Winfield Scott, who was his intimate friend, together kept "bachelors' hall" in Norfolk. In 1811, June 1st, he married Jane Proudfit, dau. of John Proudfit (the large merchant and ship owner of Norfolk, who lost several ships by "French spoliations" in 1800), and of Judith Roane Proudfit, and niece of the distinguished Judge Roane, of the Supreme Court of Virginia.

The wife of Jonathan Wood was a lady of superior qualities of heart and mind—accomplished,—having had the best advantages of education which Philadelphia of that day could afford. Possessed of superior musical culture, and above all endowed with that best jewel of true womanhood—the christian grace which made her so faithful a wife and mother.

Jonathan Wood afterwards moved to North Carolina, living first in Halifax, then in Nash, then in Franklin counties, where he lived many years and reared a large family of children. At that time there was a great impulse of emigration, from both North Carolina and Virginia, to "The West." Accordingly in 1840 we find him leaving two married daughters in the "Old North State," removing with the rest of his family to Tennessee, which was then called "going out west." Indeed, one may now cross the continent in much less time and with far less trouble than was then required to travel from North Carolina to West Tennessee. The "Western District" of Tennessee was then new and sparsely settled territory ; Memphis being but a small village.

In Brownsville, Jonathan Wood again became a merchant, associating with himself in business, his sons, James and Spencer ; but his death occurred a few years after his settling in Tennessee. He died March 13, 1847.

His young sons, James and Spencer, continued the business, and through their energy and popularity, soon became successful merchants. Mrs. Jonathan Wood lived to see all of her children married and settled in comfort and prosperity, all being near her excepting Mrs Blount and Mrs. Thorpe in North Carolina. She died in 1856, loved and respected by the entire community.

Jonathan and Jane (Proudfit) Wood had eleven children,—four died in infancy, the remaining seven as follows :

JAMES PROUDFIT WOOD (2638) was born near Louisville, N. C., Dec. 31, 1819; moved to Brownsville, Tennessee, in 1840; married, Jan. 3, 1848, Anne G. Perkins, dau. of a wealthy planter, of Haywood Co., Tenn.

James P. Wood was distinguished by great energy and activity in business affairs, but not less by those fine social traits, genial disposition and kindliness of heart which endeared him to all.

At fourteen he prevailed upon his parents to allow him to leave school and go into business, and at that early age began his career.

At the contemplation of the building of the first railroad through his section of country he was appointed by the company as general collecting agent, Secretary and Treasurer, and became successively Vice-President and President of the same road (Memphis and Ohio), which latter position he held until the operations of the road were suspended by the great civil war.

After the war he again engaged in mercantile business, and although in infirm health for several years before his death, was engaged in business to the last.

He was a Knight Templar of the order of Free masons and in the communion of the Episcopal Church. His death occurred March, 1879.

His widow is still living, married in 1883, Judge T. M. Jones, of Pulaski, a distinguished Tennessean, having been several times a member of the State Legislature, a member of the Constitutional Convention of 1870, a Judge of the Supreme Court of Tennessee, &c.

The above ends the records of the Jeremiah branch so far as collected. The sons of Jeremiah that had families, named in the order of their birth, were Joseph, Bennet, John, Jonathan and Eliphalet.

The eldest son, Joseph, was traced to descendants now living before the second son Bennet was introduced, and so on until the descendants of Eliphalet, the youngest, closes the Jeremiah branch of "The Wood Brothers Genealogy."

PART SECOND.

CAPT. JOHN WOOD.

JOHN WOOD, brother of Jeremiah Wood, married the eldest daughter of Col. Joseph Buckminster of Framingham, Massachusetts.

The following is from the Town Records of Framingham :

“Married, March 3, 1704-5, JOHN WOOD and ELIZABETH BUCKMINSTER, both of this town.”

The great-grandfather of Elizabeth (Buckminster) Wood, Thomas Buckmaster, or Buckminster, came to Boston in 1640, from England, and is named in the colonial records of that year. He was made freeman, May 6, 1646. He was the owner of lands at Muddy River, now Brookline, Mass., where he lived. He died there Sept. 20 (Boston records say 28), 1656. He left nine children. In his will he refers to Joseph as one of his youngest sons.

His widow, Johanna, married Sept. 1, 1661, Edward Garfield, of Watertown; died in 1676.

The grandfather of Elizabeth (Buckminster) Wood was Joseph Buckminster, and was the first of that Christian name in this country.

He seems to have succeeded his father and lived on the farm at Brookline.

He married Elizabeth, dau. of Hugh and Elizabeth Clark, of Watertown, in 1665. She was born Jan. 31, 1648. They had two children; Joseph, born July 31, 1666; Elizabeth, baptized Nov. 10, 1668. The father died in 1668.

His widow died in Roxbury; her remains were carried by her son to Framingham, and deposited in the family tomb there, in Church Hill cemetery, where interments of some of the family are still continued.

Joseph Buckminster, second of the name, married May 12, 1686, Martha Sharpe, of Muddy River, now Brookline, Mass.

They were the parents of Elizabeth (Buckminster) Wood, wife of John Wood.

Her father, Joseph Buckminster, was a proprietor of land, and a pioneer in settling Framingham, where his name is first mentioned in 1693.

He took an important part in the establishment and administration of affairs in the place. He was admitted to the Roxbury Church, 1684. In deeds dated 1702, he conveys as of Muddy River (Brookline). He transferred by letter his relations to the church at Framingham, Jan. 5, 1718. His oldest child, Elizabeth, married John Wood in Framingham, March 3, 1705.

The precise date of his removal to Framingham is unknown. The deed, conveying almost the entire estate of Gov. Thomas Danforth to Joseph Buckminster, bears date of March 25, 1699, is on record among the Middlesex deeds. He settled and improved "the famous Brinley Farm," sold to Francis Brinley, Esq., of Roxbury, Feb. 1, 1792, for the sum of £8600 in bills of public credit; hence the name. His estate in the town was large, his title to which involved him in protracted lawsuits, which continued after his death.

He married (2nd), Feb. 7, 1716, Martha Dall, of Boston, who died Feb., 1725.

He was seventeen years Selectman, twelve years Representative to the General Court, and many years Justice of the Peace.

He held several military commissions; commanded a company of Grenadiers in Sir Charles Holley's regiment in the expedition to Port Royal, Sept., 1710; subsequently had the command of a colonial regiment of militia.

Tradition describes him as being tall and athletic, of great physical power, and of a resolute will.

By his first wife, Martha Sharpe, he had eight children. (None by his second wife.) Had:

1. ELIZABETH, b. 1687; married March 3, 1705, to John Wood, of Framingham, as per town records; afterwards settled at what is now Woodville, in the town of Hopkinton, Mass., where descendants now reside. He died in Aug., 1725. His widow married May 6, 1728, Josiah Rice, of Framingham; he died in 1745, and Elizabeth died several years later.

2. JOHANNA BUCKMINSTER, second child of Joseph and Martha (Sharpe), b. 1690; m. June 23, 1712, John Eames, son of John and Elizabeth (Eames) Eames; had ten children. 2d, she m. Mar. 19, 1740, John Butler of Framingham.

He owned a large estate in Framingham; held several commissions; was Colonel about 1738; was twenty-eight years a Selectman; more than thirty years Town Clerk; more than twenty years a Representative at the General Court. He died at the age of 83 years, after a long life of public service and personal worth. He had Joseph, b. March 1, 1720; he was the 4th Joseph Buckminster, in direct succession, and the first to enter the ministry; graduated at Harvard College, 1739, and was pastor at Rutland more than fifty years. Rev. Joseph's son Joseph was b. Oct. 3, 1751; graduated at Yale College, 1770; settled at Portsmouth, N. H.; was a Doctor of Divinity. His father, Dr. Buckminster, preached the sermon. He died their pastor, June 9, 1812.

James Freeman Clarke, D. D., of Boston, is also a descendant of Col. Joseph Buckminster, Jr.; his father, Dr. Samuel Clarke, was the son of Martha (Curtis) Clarke, who was the dau. of Martha (Buckminster) Curtis, who was the dau. of Col. Joseph Buckminster, Jr. James Freeman Clarke grad. at Harvard College in 1829. His widow died Aug. 22, 1810; she was a remarkable woman, of great originality and strength of mind. They had ten children; the eldest, Sarah, b. Sept. 5, 1752; m. Oct. 31, 1771, Rev. Timothy Fuller, of Princeton. Their eldest son was Hon. Timothy Fuller, father of Sarah Margaret Fuller, late Countess Ossoli, and Rev. Arthur Buckminster Fuller, Harvard College, 1843, who was a Chaplain in the late Rebellion and killed at Fredericksburg.

William Buckminster, b. Dec. 15, 1736, was son of Col. Joseph, Jr.; he m. Martha Barnes, dau. of Edward and Grace (Newton) Barnes, of Marlboro'. Their children were: William, John, Martha, and Barnes. He settled in Barre. He commanded the minute-men raised in Barre, and immediately marched his company to Cambridge, after the first blood was shed at Lexington. Was on the field the whole day at the battle of Bunker Hill, and was wounded in the right shoulder as they were retreating; although thus dangerously wounded, he continued in the army until the close of the war. He suffered from that wound all his life; he was a man of inflexible integrity and spotless character. He died in Barre, June 23, 1786.

FRANCES, b. Nov. 23, 1738; m. Col. Jonathan Brewer, of Framingham, b. Feb. 23, 1726. He was in the battle of Bunker Hill; was wounded in the arm; died in 1784.

Buckminster served in the war of the Revolution, and was Lieut. under Capt. Winch, at White Plains. He was Town Clerk twenty-five years; Treasurer several years. He inherited three hundred acres of land from his father's estate, where he built a house before his marriage; died there at the age of 89 years, 10 months, Feb. 26, 1832. His wife d. Sept 17, 1842, aged 92 years and 3 months. Had thirteen children, viz: Sally, Betsey, John, Ruth, Lawson, Nancy, William, Jones, Maria, Caroline, Fanny, Harriot, Elizabeth.

Mrs. Ann Maria Buckminster Stevens, dau. of Lawson, of the children just named, resides in Philadelphia. Her husband is Professor of Chemistry and Philosophy in Girard College.

Mrs. Lydia H. Buckminster, second wife of William Buckminster, of the above children, resides in West Roxbury, Mass., and has contributed much to the Buckminster portion of this record. She was born Nov. 26, 1818. Her maiden name was Lydia Nelson Hastings, dau. of Jonathan and Nancy (Adams) Hastings, of Brighton (now a part of Boston, Mass.) Her husband, William Buckminster, entered Harvard College in the class of 1809, but did not graduate, as "the great rebellion" occurred in 1807, and he took part, as he thought, with the oppressed and left college, studied law and was admitted in 1811 to the Middlesex bar, and continued in the practice until 1839; he then became one of the proprietors and sole editor of the Boston Cultivator. In 1841 he established an agricultural paper in Boston, the Massachusetts Ploughman; was the only editor about four years, when his eldest son, Wm. J. Buckminster, of Harvard College, 1835, was associated with him; (the son died March 2, 1878). He continued this connection until 1862, when he retired to his father's homestead, a portion of the one thousand acres originally owned by his ancestor, Col. Joseph Buckminster, as early as 1693. He gave some attention to inventing, he taking patents for a horse rake, a corn planter, a mill gate, &c.

He died June 9, 1865, and is buried near the Buckminster tomb in Framingham.

His daughter, Mrs. Ellen Buckminster Stone, by first wife, Sally Larrabee, of Malden, resides in Framingham.

She died Feb., 1833; had thirteen children.

5. THOMAS BUCKMINSTER, son of Col. Joseph, and brother of Elizabeth (Buckminster) Wood, b. 1699; m. March 1, 1722, Sarah Baxter, of Medfield; had ten children; removed to Brookfield, Mass.

Her sister, Mary Baxter, m. Rev. John Gardner, whose daughter, Katherine Gardner, m. Jonathan Wood, of Stow, son of Jeremiah, thus connecting the Buckminster and Baxter families with both the Jeremiah and John branches of the Wood family.

6. SARAH, dau. of Col. Joseph Buckminster, b. 1702; m. June 23, 1720, Dr. Bezaleel Rice, of Framingham, son of David and Hannah (Walker) Rice; had six children. (Dr. Rice may have been a brother of Josiah Rice, second husband of Elizabeth (Buckminster) Wood).

7. SYBILLA, b. 1705; m. Jan. 24, 1728, John White, of Framingham. Had five children.

8. ZERVIAH, b. July 26, 1710; m. Dec. 19, 1729, William Brintnal, of Framingham, son of Thomas and Hannah (Willard) Brintnal; Yale College, 1721. Was a teacher in Sudbury and Rutland several years. He also was a minister; died in 1745; interred in the Buckminster lot, Framingham. Had five children.

The family have been honored in its descendants in every generation. The names Thomas, Joseph, Lawson, William, have been conspicuous in different generations. The family—both men and women—have been leaders in public affairs in their own sphere.

Within the cemetery at Framingham, Mass., is a very large and beautiful family yard; an iron fence surrounds it all. In different parts are representatives of the later generations.

Also the following:

“Anno Domini, 1771.
Under this monument lies
JOSEPH BUCKMINSTER, ESQ.,
aged 81 years.
One worthy in his day.”

His mother, two wives and many of his descendants are buried there.

Joseph Wood

CAPT. JOHN WOOD.

JOHN WOOD, brother of Jeremiah Wood, has been traced from the date of his marriage with the oldest daughter of Col. Joseph Buckminster, of Framingham, Mass.

The following is from the Town Records of Framingham :

CHILDREN OF JOHN (3001)

AND

ELIZABETH (3002) (BUCKMINSTER) WOOD.

- 3003. JOHN WOOD, b. July 24, 1707.
- 3004. MARY WOOD, b. Aug. 4, 1709.
- 3005. ELIZABETH WOOD, b. March 3, 1712; d. Apr. 13, 1714.
- 3006. BENJAMIN WOOD, b. Apr. 15, 1714.
- 3007. ELIZABETH WOOD, b. Aug. 4, 1716.
- 3008. THOMAS WOOD, b. Sept. 9, 1719.
- 3009. JOSEPH WOOD, b. Aug. 3, 1722.
- 3010. SAMUEL WOOD, birth not recorded in Framingham.

Samuel's birth was probably recorded in Hopkinton, as the town completed its organization March 25, 1724, less than a year and eight months after the birth of Joseph, and the father, John Wood, was elected one of the Selectmen. Four sons and one daughter were married in Hopkinton. In the Church Records, May 21, 1723—

“Voted: That Mr. John Wood and John How take care that we are constantly provided with a minister to preach with us on Sabbath days.”

John Wood was also one of the fifteen original members of the church there, which was organized Sept. 2, 1724, and on the same day the Rev. Samuel Barrett was ordained pastor.

The original members were :

SAMUEL BARRETT,
 WILLIAM MONTGOMERY,
 *ROBERT HAMILTON,
 *SAMUEL WARK,
 *BENJAMIN BURNAP,
 ROBERT COOK,
 *ELNATHAN ALLEN—(See Ward's History of Shrewsbury concerning Allen),
 JOHN WOOD,
 JOSEPH HAVEN,
 ROBERT HUSTON,
 *WILLIAM DUNAGHOL,
 *PATRICK HAMILTON,
 *OBADIAH ALLEN,
 JACOB GIBBS.

Those marked with a star (*) were originally from the north part of Ireland.

This indicates that the brothers, John and Jeremiah Wood, were not from Ireland. The tradition is that they were of English origin.

There is a deed in the possession of Col. Albert Wood, of Woodville, Mass., and on record at Cambridge, given Nov. 1, 1714, by "Joseph Buckminster, of Framingham, to Elnathan Allen, of Sudbury, in the aforesaid County of Middlesex, yeoman, and John Wood, of Framingham aforesaid, yeoman, by each of them one hundred and fifty pounds thereof, &c., containing three hundred acres, situate, lying between townships of Marlboro and Sherborn, in the County aforesaid, which said Cedar Swamp is called, or known by the name of White Hall, and was, together with the uplands thereunto belonging, granted and confirmed unto me, the said Joseph Buckminster, by the Honorable General Court or Assembly of the above province of the Massachusetts Bay, at their session begun and held in Boston in the month of May, in the present year of our Lord, one thousand seven hundred and fourteen (as by Records of said Court may more fully and at large appear)," &c.

Elnathan Allen and John Wood also purchased of the Daniels's two hundred acres, Sept. 12, 1715, and also of and in a saw mill standing on a part of the farm by them purchased of Joseph Buckminster, Esq., called White Hall, all of which premises are situate in Hopkinton. There was an Indenture of Partition of their estate between Allen and Wood, and between Wood and Allen, dated Nov. 25, 1720. John Wood died in Aug., 1725. Elnathan Allen removed to Shrewsbury, Mass.

"An inventory of all goods and chattels of John Wood, Gentleman, deceased," was prized at Hopkinton, on the 14th day of October, 1725, by Henry Walker, Joseph Haven, and Benjamin Burnap, which amounted to 863 pounds, 6 shillings.

The settlement of the estate was long delayed. It was ordered Registered Jan. 27, 1734. Entered Lib. 20, pp. 201, 2, 3, 4.

The following will explain the manner of distribution :

"CAMBRIDGE, Oct. 18, 1731.

This day, upon my citation appeared John Wood, eldest son of the deceased within named, and Daniel Stone, husband of Mary, one of the deceased's daughters, as also Josiah Rice, who married sd. deceased's Widow, together with said Widow, and the returns of the Commissioners within named being read, it appeared that the greatest part of the deceased's Land after the widow's Thirds were set off, were set to said John, and he having refused to accept thereof, and the same being offered to said Stone, he also refused, and whereas the rest of the children are all under age, I direct said Commissioners to distribute the remaining two-thirds of said deceased's estate among sd. deceased's children Viz: Two shares thereof to the eldest son, and to all the rest one Single Share.

JON^N REMINGTON,

Judge Probate."

Benj. Burnap, Henry Walker, Ebenezer Lock, of Hopkinton, and John Gleazen of Framingham were the Commissioners.

The names of the heirs were Elizabeth Wood alias Rice, Widow's thirds; John, eldest son; Daniel Stone, husband of deceased's child Mary; Benjamin, Elizabeth, Thomas, Joseph and Samuel.

The administration account was dated July 29, 1726, and had this heading:

"The account of Elizabeth Wood, Relict, Widow and administratrix of the estate of Mr. John Wood, late of Hopkinton, in the County of Middlesex, deceased Intestate."

At Cambridge, Oct. 4, 1728, Josiah Rice and Elizabeth Wood alias Rice, made oath to it, and to the heading was added: "now the wife of Josiah Rice, of Framingham in said County, Husbandman." Rev. Mr. Swift reported the marriage, but it is recorded "May 6, 1728. Josiah Rice and Elizabeth Hood, both of Framingham, were married." In the Report of the apprizers of the estate of John Wood, it is written "Capt. John Whood," but in no place so written by members of the family. In Rev. Mr. Parkman's diary, who was about to settle at Westboro, from Watertown, he says: "Returning after I had secured my call, I stopped at Hopkinton at 'Mr. Whood's,' where I fared sumptuously on roast goose, roast pea-hen, baked stuffed venison, beef, pork, &c."

After dinner, he adds: "we smoked a pipe, and read Gov. Shute's 'Memorial to the King.'" This was in 1723. He probably stopped at the house of John Wood, whom he heard called Mr. Whood. His marriage, in Framingham in 1705, is recorded unmistakably John Wood. The Church records of Framingham were lost during Mr. Swift's ministry. A little private journal in the form of a Sabbath diary, kept by Mr. Swift, and extending from Dec. 30, 1716, to July 14, 1728, which the writer has seen, is credited with the following: "John Hood, Fence viewer, 1712, dismissed to found a Church in Hopkinton, Aug. 30, 1724," and was probably the Capt. Hood buried in Hopkinton, Aug. 22, 1725. There was no John Hood among the original members of the Church in Hopkinton, but there was a John Wood.

The mistake of Mr. Swift was very likely caused by the improper pronunciation, but it could be caused by mistaking a W for an H, in some cases, in his diary. His error has been copied by some Genealogists. There are more than one hundred conveyances of land in the index of Hopkinton and Upton lands from 1743 to 1833, by the name of Wood, but not one by the name of Hood.

The will of Josiah Rice was made March 2, 1745; was proved Aug. 26, 1745.

EXTRACTS FROM WILL.

"I give my son-in-law, Samuel Wood, one piece of land, containing about twelve acres, be more or less, lying near the Mansion House of Capt. John Wood, late of Hopkinton, deceased, bounded" &c.

ITEM. I appoint my well beloved wife, Elizabeth, and my son-in-law, Joseph Wood, my Executors.

COL. ALBERT WOOD, of Woodville, Mass., in a brief sketch of his ancestors, says of his grandfather, "Capt. Joseph Wood (3009), a man of good character, and held important offices in Hopkinton, one of which was a commission as Captain under the King of England." He died at his home in Hopkinton. His gravestone now stands in the old burying-ground, Hopkinton Centre. The following may now be found upon his gravestone :

On his right lies Martha, his first wife, who died 1754, aged 33, and three sons ; William, aged 16 mo. ; and William the second, aged 12 years ; Samuel, aged 8 years.

On the left lies Polly, the daughter by his second wife, died Apr., 1776, in her 8th year. An inscription on a small stone at the foot reads as follows : "Capt. Joseph Wood and five of his children."

The widow of Capt. Joseph remained a widow for some time ; married John Chamberlain, of Hopkinton. John Chamberlain died. The widow remained at Hopkinton Centre for some time, then removed to her son's, William Wood, where she lived a part of the time, and a part with her daughter. She died at her son William's, Feb. 5, 1820, and was buried at Hopkinton, aged 85 years.

The request for administration of Capt. Joseph's estate, was made Oct. 7, 1785. Joseph Wood, of Grafton, Physician, was made administrator. Joseph, the eldest son, asked for but a single share. William was to have the children's share of the estate and pay to his brothers and sisters, viz : Joseph, Samuel, Nathaniel Goodwin, Hannah, Martha, Sally, Elizabeth and John, their respective shares.

At the close of the settlement and distribution account of said estate, by the Committee appointed, the following certificate and signatures are found in the Probate Records :

“This may certify to the Honorable Judge of Probate, that the subscribers are fully satisfied and contented with the preceding.

MAJ. WILLIAM WOOD.

3019. MAJ. WILLIAM WOOD, of Woodville, Mass., was born in Hopkinton, Oct. 23, 1760; was in the War of the Revolution, afterwards married Phebe Goulding, of Grafton, Mass., Oct. 10, 1786. They had thirteen children. Maj. William had the homestead of his father, Joseph Wood, which was a portion of the estate of his grandfather, Capt. John Wood, who purchased of his father-in-law, Col. Joseph Buckminster, of Framingham, Mass., in 1714. A Grist-mill was upon this farm. Maj. William Wood built a carding machine, and in 1810 sold his water power and some other lands to the Hopkinton Manufacturing Company, for the purpose of building a Cotton Mill, which was completed in 1811; he having an interest in it.

William Wood was an honest man, and filled important offices in the town of Hopkinton. Was elected Captain of the West company in Hopkinton, and was afterwards elected Major, which positions he filled with honor to himself.

He taught his children to "be up and doing while the day lasts," and impressed upon them the importance of regarding their word in all cases.

He died in Woodville, May 6, 1832, and was there entombed, where a fine granite monument is erected to the memory of his family and his descendants.

3020. PHEBE (GOULDING) WOOD, wife of Maj. William Wood, was born in Grafton, Mass., May 22, 1767. She was truly a helpmeet to her husband, a good manager in his household affairs. She made all persons comfortable who called at her house, and was beloved by all her children and others. She died April 22, 1851, and was nearly 84 years of age. She maintained her faculties up to her last sickness. Her portrait is from an old oil painting.

Phoebe Wood

The Fall before her death she called a meeting of her children, an account of which was published in the newspapers of the day, which I will here record :

“ A Family Meeting of the Widow and Children of the late William Wood was held in the old Homestead in Woodville, Mass., Oct. 16, 1850.

“ Maj. William Wood, the husband of the aged widow, was a soldier in the Army of the Revolution. He was at Saratoga, New York, and at Rhode Island, engaged in active service, and also witnessed the scenes of Bunker Hill.

“ After the war was over, he married and became the father of a large family of children. After his decease, his widow received a pension from his country for service rendered in the time of his country's need and peril.

“ She was then over 83 years of age, and the remembrance of her husband, vivid and tender, and at the same time her love for her children quick and strong ; wishing to give expression to her love of the deceased husband and the surviving children, before she should go hence to be no more, she summoned sons and daughters to meet at her house. They were obedient children and came.

“ The eldest a woman of 63 years, the youngest a man of 37 years, and were present in all, five brothers and five sisters, and the widow of a deceased brother, — eleven ; these, with their husbands, wives, children, and grandchildren.

“ The greetings were glad and hearty as they came and took the aged mother by the hand and spoke of the Heavenly Father's dealings with them. The hours were very short. The family dinner was soon spread and partaken of with the interchange of sweet and tender remembrances of the past, in which the name of the patriot sire was often pronounced.

“ As the day drew toward a close, the aged Mother conducted her eleven children into her parlor chamber.

“ In the centre of the room stood a table bearing a new silver cup, surrounded by a circle of eleven silver cups of like fashion.

“ The centre cup bore the name of the mother and deceased father.

“ The old lady then stepped forward and took one from the eleven and presented it to her eldest daughter, a woman of 63 years. It bore the following inscription :

“ ‘ Given to ——— ———, by Phebe Wood, as a part of pension received for services rendered in the U. S. Army by her father, William Wood, in 1776.’

“ She received the cup with a mother’s blessing and retired to her place.

“ Then the next born came forward and received his cup and blessing, and so all in the order of their age until the youngest was blessed and held in his hand the cup bearing his own name and that of his father and mother surmounting the eagle of his country.

“ As well as their hearts would allow they sang the beautiful hymn ‘ Blest be the tie that binds.’

“ All hearts in that family circle melted and all eyes overflowed in deep and hallowed affection.

“ The Word of God was then read and after mutual exhortation and encouragement, they all bowed together in prayer and thanksgiving to the God of their mercies, their fathers’ God, the God of the widow and the fatherless. It was a sweet and heavenly scene.

“ After singing the Christian Doxology, and giving the parting hand to the beloved mother and to each other, they separated to meet, probably, no more on earth. And in the homes of the sons and daughters may now be seen the cup on which conjugal and maternal love and patriotism have engraven their joint memorial.

“ May the peace of God rest on that aged widow, and on her children and children’s children to the latest generation.”

The meeting was held Oct. 16, 1850. An anniversary meeting was held the next year, but the aged mother had passed to her final rest. Her youngest son, Samuel, moved "That we hold a Family Meeting of the children of William and Phebe Wood, on or about the 16th of October of each year, and sustain said meetings as long as two of the brothers or sisters are permitted to live." Which was carried.

Samuel was killed the following Spring by being caught in the machinery of his factory, but the meetings have been maintained,—thirty-three meetings up to the present time.

At the twenty-fourth meeting, seventy-four descendants being present, a resolution was adopted by the grandchildren to sustain these meetings after the parents had passed away.

I copy from the Secretary's report of the thirty-third meeting:

"WOODVILLE, MASS., Oct. 16, 1884.

"The Thirty-third Reunion of the Descendants of Maj. William and Phebe Wood was held at Reservoir House, Thursday, Oct. 16, 1884.

"Children present as heads of families:

Mrs. Albert Wood.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Seaver.

Mr. Edward J. Coolidge.

Grandchildren present, twenty-four.

Great-grandchildren, nineteen.

Great-great-grandchildren, two.

"Dinner was served at one o'clock.

"The meeting was called to order at 3 o'clock by the President, S. Eugene Wood.

"The report of the last meeting was read by the Secretary, Leroy E. Coolidge, and was adopted.

“L. E. Coolidge was chosen Secretary for the ensuing year.

“Voted: S. Eugene Wood, Frank Wood and L. E. Coolidge be a Committee to attend to having the Portrait of Phebe Wood, wife of William Wood, bound in the Genealogy of the Wood Family.’

“Remarks were made by many present. Many feeling tributes were spoken in memory of Mrs. Miranda Corbett, who has met with us for the last time here, having departed this life Oct. 24, 1883.

“Voted: to meet again one year from date at the same place.’ The meeting closed with singing.

“Supper was served at six o’clock. A social time followed, after which the company disbanded, hoping to meet again the following year.”

A statement is drawn from the records of the thirty-three meetings of the above family, giving the number present so far as recorded.

COL. ALBERT WOOD, son of Maj. Wm. Wood, was born in Hopkinton, Aug. 18, 1801. He remained with his father until May 1, 1823, when he entered into partnership with his brother, Wm. B. Wood. They continued in the cotton business for nearly twenty years.

They built one stone mill and sixteen dwelling-houses. In November, 1846, the company sold the whole of the property to the City of Boston, in connection with the Water Works, for twenty-five thousand dollars. The Water Power was bought back by Col. Albert Wood and others in 1859. Col. Albert built several dams, and alone, or with another, built more than eighty houses. Was an active business man for many years. Was Colonel of the Fourth Regiment of Massachusetts Militia; held prominent town offices for several years; was twice elected Representative to the General Court.

He has contributed largely to everything that would help to build up the village of Woodville, his home, which was also the home of his father, his grandfather, and his great-grandfather Wood.

Col. Albert Wood's brothers, John G. Wood and Col. Russell Wood, were well known and successful Hotel keepers for many years.

HON. JOSEPH WOOD, son of Major William and Phebe (Goulding) Wood, was born in Hopkinton, Mass., Oct. 18, 1803. His portrait is found at the beginning of Part II. "He entered a cotton factory and had charge of one of the rooms before he was of age; afterwards formed a partnership with Stephen Benedict, and commenced business at Central Falls, Rhode Island, in 1831. This establishment was long known as the 'Benedict and Wood Mill.' In 1847 Mr. Wood also formed a partnership with Mr. John A. Adams and his own brother, Samuel Wood, known as Wood, Adams & Co.; engaged in manufacturing cotton thread. The company was known finally as the Central Falls Thread Co. In 1851, with his brother Samuel, he purchased the Richards Mill, and under the firm name of J. & S. Wood, engaged in manufacturing cotton cloth. This firm was dissolved by the death of Samuel, in 1853, who was killed by being caught in the machinery in the mill.

Samuel's interest being sold to Mr. John A. Adams, the mill was run by Wood and Adams until 1863, when it was sold to the Pawtucket Haircloth Company, and Wood & Adams became connected with the Stafford Manufacturing Company, Mr. Wood as Treasurer. In this position he remained till his death.

A man of great integrity, conscientiousness, industry and perseverance; he acquired a large estate and an enviable reputation. For more than twenty-five years he was superintendent of the Sabbath school of his church. Indeed, no good cause was neglected by him, and his name was a synonym for honor in all business circles. During the Rebellion he lent his voice, strength, and purse to the nation.

After long refusing official honors, he finally consented, in 1872, to accept the nomination of Senator from Lincoln, R. I., and was unanimously elected by both parties. He adorned the State Senate, as he had adorned every other circle of life. Mr. Wood died at his residence in Central Falls, Feb. 10, 1873."—[Extracts from biographical sketch of Joseph Wood, in History of Rhode Island.]

LOVETT MORSE.

“MR. MORSE was a native of Westboro, Mass., and moved to Taunton, in 1827 or 1828, and was for several years engaged in the hotel business, from which he retired in 1840, turning his attention to financial matters. He was appointed one of the assignees of Crocker and Richmond in 1842, and assisted in settling their large estate. He was also associated with R. S. Dean, as the successors of the above firm in the manufacture of machinery, for some years. He became a director in the Taunton Bank, and was its president for nearly twenty years, retiring in 1869. As a financier he was very successful, accumulating a handsome property. In 1850 he was associated with his sons in the manufacture of nails and tacks, occupying the brick establishment now owned by the Copper Works; but relinquished the business, disposing of it to the above company amid the fluctuations of the war, in 1864. Since that time Mr. Morse has devoted his attention to his private financial affairs and his family, as a gentleman of leisure. He was formerly connected with St. Thomas parish, but subsequently joined the Broadway Congregational Church, which has been the frequent recipient of his liberal contributions, his counsel and co-operation as a member, for more than twenty years. Mr. Morse has been twice married; first with Miss Sally Atherton, by whom he leaves three sons; she died about five years since. His second wife, Mrs. Elizabeth (Wilbar) Hatch, survives him."—[Extract from Obituary notice.]

NATHANIEL GOODWIN WOOD.

NATHANIEL GOODWIN WOOD (4299), son of Merritt, and grandson of Nathaniel Goodwin Wood, went early into the jewelry business. He was with Moses Wood for a time, then engaged with Wm. P. McKay & Co., of Boston, to finish his trade and learn the general business; he remained with them about three years, after which he went to Saco, Maine,—established a jewelry store on Factory Island, so called;—after about eighteen months he established another store in Biddeford, Me., and continued the two for about eighteen months.

He moved to Boston in 1848, and has been eminently successful there, and is a man of wealth and influence.

He does not forget the home of his father, and is a large real estate owner there, as I learn from the tax list of Leominster, Mass. He has been ably assisted by his sons in his business.

His portrait is presented upon the opposite page.
